Lawyer says Maeras guilty plea likely

Jerry Maeras was a "dupe" who just got caught up in Thomas Brimberry's dealings and Maeras will probably plead guilty to one or more federal crimes, according to one of Maeras' attorneys, John Gitchoff.

"Brimberry was throwing around beau coup dollars and Jerry just got caught up in it," Gitchoff stated.

Maeras is charged with conspiracy and securities and mail fraud in connection with the collapse of the Stix & Co. brokerage firm in St. Louis in 1971. He was charged in an informational document while others in the alleged conspiracy were indicted by a federal grand jury last week. Indicted were Brimberry's bookkeeper, Duane Skinner, a former Pontoon Beach trustee; Collinsville Attorney James Massa; Brimberry's brother-in-law Arthur Miller Jr. of Granite City, and Leonard Bednar, a former vice president of Stix.

The five are charged with conspiring to inflate the value of Stix customer accounts with more than $40 million in false or non-existent stocks and then borrow or misappropriate more than $16 million from Stix, causing its collapse.

Responding to federal charges that fake or non-existent stock certificates were deposited into Maeras' two accounts at the Stix & Co. stock brokerage, Gitchoff said, "I don't think Jerry knew about the phony stock. Not for a long time and not at first."

"All that activity had to be Brimberry and possibly Bednar. The sale, purchase of stocks and the moving of stock at Stix, Jerry didn't know anything about. He was never over there," Gitchoff contended.

However, he speculated, "At some time, he (Maeras) had to become aware of it and receive some benefit of it. The explanations to him were satisfying him, or, at least, he wanted

Stix funds built GC mansion?

Following is the second part of a two-part series detailing the specific allegations of the 35-page federal grand jury indictment against James Massa, Arthur Miller Jr. and Duane Skinner, a separate indictment against Leonard Bednar and a felony informational document issued by the U.S. attorney's office against Jerry S. Maeras (see related story).

The first part appeared in the Monday, Oct. 25, Press-Record. Copies of that issue are available at the front desk of the Press-Record office, 1815 Delmar Ave.

During their control of Stix & Co., Thomas Brimberry and Massa were able to divert large sums of money from accounts inflated in value by false or non-existent stocks, the grand jury charges in the indictment.

Much of this money allegedly was used for the personal benefit of the defendants, according to the document. Among those benefits was a lavish mansion on Parkway Drive and a $485,000 home near Phoenix, Ariz., purchased by Brimberry, the grand jury charges. Following are details on how the grand jury believes those properties were financed, and other elements of the alleged fraud.

THE BRIMBERRY MANSION

Between about April and November of 1979, Massa assisted Brimberry in acquiring the property on Parkway Drive at a cost exceeding $90,000 with funds misappropriated from Stix, it is alleged.

Massa, Miller and Skinner aided in concealing the source of the money and the actual cost of constructing the mansion from the Internal Revenue Service and others, at least from about July, 1980, through November, 1981, the indictment charges. It says construction costs of the house "substantially exceeded $1 million."

In about October, 1980, Massa aided Brimberry in establishing a purported loan for $250,000 to construct the mansion. "The purpose of this loan" was to give the impression to the IRS and others that Thomas R. Brimberry had borrowed this $250,000 from defendant James Massa when, in fact, this was a sham transaction," the grand jury charges.

About the same time, Brimberry diverted funds from Stix and wired $250,000 from one of Massa's Stix accounts to his bank account at First National Bank of Collinsville; Massa purchased a $250,000 cashier's check and deposited it into Brimberry's bank account at the Bank of Edwardsville, it is alleged.

Between March and April, 1981, Brimberry diverted an additional $250,000 from Stix to Massa in apparent repayment of the loan; Massa kept the money, the indictment alleges.

"The effect of the above-described transactions was for $500,000 to be

Low-cost shipping key to Port's success

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Tri-City Regional Port facilities may not reflect the sun as brilliantly as the Gateway Arch, but due to their low-cost approach they form a genuine "gateway to business success."

In the opinion of a growing number of shipping officials, "Quad-Cityans who toured the port last week were told of its successful formula—emphasis on competitive charges through efficient handling of a wide range of cargoes."

Prospects for continued expansion are seen as brighter than the Arch—so bright that port planners have only one regret; the regret is that one lifetime will not last long enough for them to see the port reach its full potential.

General Manager Carl A. Ranft said, "Projects being discussed as a way of furthering port goals were said to include:—A bin to permit more continuous flow of grain onto conveyors, reducing electrical stops and starts that cause high-cost power surges."

—Moving of a Port-owned roadway to double barge-rail transfer capacity.

—A second Chain of Rocks Canal harbor, 200x350 feet initially, to serve additional port-related industrial sites.

The proposal has cleared the Corps of Engineers in St. Louis and has been forwarded to Corps officials in Vicksburg, Miss.

Although developers by nature are optimistic and enthusiastic, they have a supercharged, "can't miss" viewpoint on the local Mississippi River terminal, Ranft told the October prayer breakfast gathering, arranged by Granite City Rotarians and held at the Port's new administrative building.

He said the Tri-City Port's success is tied more to world markets than to local economic conditions, although the recession has had some effect on steel shipping volume. Grain trade was slow two years ago but now is doing well, the speaker said.

An example cited of the worldwide link was a containerized shipment of nearly 2,000 tons of high protein flour from the Peavey Co. at Alton. The shipment utilized a concept designed to simplify or bypass most tasks related to loading, unloading, repacking and final loading.

Special barges owned by the Waterman Steamship Co. were brought here for loading by the Granite City Terminal.

At New Orleans, the containers were moved aboard a U.S. vessel and transported to Alexandria, Egypt, where the still-sealed units were placed aboard river barges for movement up the Nile to Khartoum, Sudan.

Ranft commented, "From the Tri-City Port to the Sudan, the flour was safe from losses often incurred in the repacking and reshipping process. Time and manpower were saved by the use of 'Lash-type' containers, enhancing the ease and profitability of moving goods on the world's waterways."

"And the process is not a grain transfer facilities on a large aerial photograph of the port area. The three local mayors, state Sen. Sam Wadabale and state Rep. Sam Wolf were among dignitaries who greeted the Democratic candidate prior to a short tour of the port.

one-way street. A similar containerized method was used when the Chemetco plant here acquired a copper reduction furnace from Antwerp, Netherlands. One of the components was a circular casting weighing 140,000 pounds.

"Eighty percent of the total cargo handled by the Tri-City Port is destined for Europe, Africa, Asia and Central America."

"Imports from Canada, Europe and Japan arrive here daily."

"We handle a wide range of products for export—import and domestic markets, including petroleum, grain, wood, paper products, copper, zinc concentrates, bulk cargo and general cargo."

He said the Tri-City Port is a "gateway to business success for its customers because our chief objectives are transportation and industrial facility development."

"Located on the northernmost ice-free, slack water channel of the Mississippi River, and in the center of the Midwest, Tri-City is the leader in port development among the 13 ports in Illinois."

"A 130-acre industrial park adjacent to our existing harbor is available for use. Another 47-acre portion was designated by the federal government in 1977 for development of St. Louis Metropolitan Area Foreign Trade Zone 31."

"The zone also occupies buildings at 16th and State streets, Granite City, and is planning a subzone at the Chrysler automotive plant in Fenton, Mo.

"There are a total of 80 foreign trade zones in the U.S. and we are one of the 39 that are in operation. Nine subzones are operating and nine other applications are pending, including ours for Chrysler."

Pointing out that the industrial park is served by electricity, water and other utilities, Ranft said the recent installation of sanitary sewers through Madison County's four-township program is certain to be of immense value in bringing about development of the Port, Highway Three and Interstate 270 areas.

Saying the importance of geographic location is hard to overemphasize, as long as the Port remains fully competitive in its fees, he related, "The Mississippi River system extends 7,000 miles and connects 29 of America's major industrial cities."

"This system provides easy access to the deep water ports of New Orleans and Chicago for transshipments to all parts of the world, or direct shipments by way of those ports to their final destinations by Lash and Seabee barges."

"The Tri-City Port is near 14 railroad systems providing direct one-day service to such cities as Chicago, Omaha, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Memphis and Detroit. Rail movements to and from the Port are handled by Norfolk & Southern."

"We are within the St. Louis commercial truck zone, with convenient links to five Interstate highways—44, 55, 64, 70 and 270—by way of divided, four-lane Illinois Route Three. Tugboats operating 24 hours a day, seven days a week, offer exclusive barge handling services."

Facilities viewed from a bus last week included the public dock, cranes, conveyor systems, 30,000 square feet of covered storage space, and the operations of such tenants as Granite City Terminal, Triple T, Apex Oil, Art's Fleeting Service, Bulk Services Corp., Granite City Steel and I.S. Joseph & Co.

Pelletizing is permitting larger loads to be placed in barges handled here, it was asserted.

Ranft commented, "We can handle most kinds of bulk liquid products, with transfers between rail, truck and barge carriers."

"Bulk liquid capacities exceed 26 million gallons in three categories: fuel oil in heated tanks, 22,000,000 gallons; liquid fertilizer, 3,000,000 gallons; and caustic soda, 600,000 gallons."

"Arrangements for heating make it possible for all types of shipments to be loaded and unloaded here 12 months a year."

"A food oil line permits bulk transfer of soybean oil, molasses and vegetable oils."

"And an oil pipeline connects us with Lake Charles, La., Wood River, Chicago and Indiana."

Shippers and government leaders from this region, Illinois, the U.S. and many foreign countries regularly visit the Tri-City Port and take an active interest in its progress, the Quad-City group was told.

Hosts included Robert Wydra, assistant general manager, and Jerry Lavelle, port engineer.

Lawyer says

them to satisfy him," the attorney commented.

"The situation we are looking at now is that Jerry will probably enter a plea of guilty at some point in the future and, if they want him to testify, he will testify," Gitchoff added.

Maeras, who is from Madison, spoke to the Press-Record briefly Monday, but said any statements about his involvement in the Stix case will have to come from his attorneys, Gitchoff and David Capes of St. Louis. Capes was unavailable yesterday.

One of Maeras' friends, who asked not to be named, commented on Maeras' involvement in the multi-million dollar conspiracy, saying, "If Brimberry gets (charged with) one count and (sentenced to) three years, Jerry should get (a sentence of) 90 days in Hawaii."

Gitchoff confirmed that Maeras has been working with federal investigators and may have given them information which is causing them to re-evaluate a deal they made with Brimberry. It had been announced that Brimberry would be allowed to plead guilty to only one felony count of tax evasion, if he would give full and truthful cooperation to the government.

Gitchoff did not say what Maeras may have given investigators which may have changed their attitude toward Brimberry, but did say, "He (Maeras) cooperated over a long period of time. They requested his records and we gave them up immediately. Jerry kept very extensive records. I am sure they expedited much of the work of the investigation. As a result, they are taking another look at Brimberry." Gitchoff stressed that Maeras is named in the grand jury criminal indictment only as an "undicted co-conspirator" and the charges against Maeras were made in an informational document from the U.S. Attorney's office, not the grand jury. The federal authorities are obviously putting Maeras into a different class from the rest, Gitchoff hinted.

A news release from U.S. Attorneys Thomas E. Dikunier and Frederick J. Hess listed maximum penalties of 145 years imprisonment for Maeras, 50 years imprisonment for Skinner and 15 years and a $50,000 fine for Miller. If found guilty of all counts, but did not list any penalties for Maeras, who is charged with conspiracy and securities and mail fraud.

Gitchoff stressed that he does not believe Maeras belongs in the same category as the others, particularly Brimberry, the former senior vice-president of Stix who has been a central figure in the investigation.

Comparing Maeras to Brimberry, Gitchoff said, "You don't see Jerry Maeras in a million dollar house here and a half-million dollar house in Phoenix. You see Jerry at a service station every morning at 6 o'clock pumping gas."

Maeras was arraigned last week before U.S. Magistrate David D. Noco and stood silent when asked to enter a plea. The magistrate then entered an innocent plea on his behalf.

The other four of the five persons formally charged in the Stix collapse pleaded innocent to the charges early this week.

Bednar, 39, of Florissant, Mo., appeared before U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith Monday, entered his plea and a trial date of Dec. 6 was reserved.

Massa, Miller and Skinner appeared together for arraignment before U.S. District Judge John F. Nangle Tuesday and their attorneys entered innocent pleas for them. Massa is represented by Barry Short of St. Louis, a former U.S. attorney; Miller is represented by Patrick Mathis of Belleville and Skinner's attorney is Robert Rice of Belleville.

Rice asked that Skinner be allowed to travel beyond the boundaries of the court, eastern Missouri, saying that Skinner must travel as part of his business.

Rice was asked to submit a memorandum to Judge Nangle for his approval. However, U.S. Attorney, Terry I. Adelman told the court he wants to know of Skinner's whereabouts and asked that he be ordered to surrender his passport. The judge is to rule on the request.

There are no formal charges pending against Brimberry.

Thompson, Hartigan are endorsed

Quad-City area voters are encouraged to vote in Tuesday's general election regardless of their political party or preferences.

Both the Democratic and Republican parties have capable candidates for federal, state and county offices and we encourage voters to consider each candidate, rather than voting a straight party ticket. No party has a lock on all the best candidates.

Here are our endorsements for voters to consider.

FOR GOVERNOR—We prefer Republican incumbent JAMES THOMPSON over Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson. Thompson is running with George H. Ryan and Stevenson's running mate is Grace Mary Stern.

Although Thompson has let some state funding responsibilities slide backward as he emphasizes budget balancing, his task has not been easy (given the severe economic recession and legislators' unwillingness to consider new revenue of any kind).

Thompson has the experience, skills and instincts to help the state cope with the challenging mid-1980s, especially in instances where he seeks to exert leadership. Stevenson is able, but has been away from state government more than a decade; some of the supposed innovations he has proposed already are in place and functioning.

FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL—Our choice is Democrat NEIL F. HARTIGAN on the basis of his ties with and interest in this area. Incumbent Republican Ty Fabner also is an attractive candidate, but Hartigan is highly experienced in state government, did a good job as lieutenant governor and would not forget Quad-City area's needs as attorney general.

FOR SECRETARY OF STATE—JIM EDGAR, the efficient Republican incumbent, gets the clear nod. Democrat Jerry Cosentino has made few mistakes as state treasurer but should not be in a position of licensing his own trucking interests. Edgar has performed well in the past and has a bright political future ahead of him.

FOR COMPTROLLER—Democrat ROLAND BURRIS our choice. Republican Cal Skinner Jr. is a rebel who would "keep the pot boiling," but we are not sure the comptroller's office needs the turmoil. Burriss has kept it operating smoothly while providing helpful insight into spending and revenue trends. He deserves another term.

FOR STATE TREASURER—Democrat JAMES DONNEWALD is our selection, based on his knowledge about the local area, his long governmental service and his proven abilities as a businessman. Republican John Bailey of Peoria is a personable and well-versed politician, but we believe Donnewald can do more for Southern Illinois.

Members of the Press-Record editorial staff asked residents of the Quad-City area if they thought that taxpayers would eventually have to pay to bail-out the social security system or did they believe the system could survive on its own. Their reactions follow:

R. E. Thalmann, Granite City

"No, I don't think so. I think the program is self-sustaining if properly administered. It's not being 100 percent properly administered now."

William Simmons, Granite City

"No, I don't think it will survive on its own. If Reagan would do his job it wouldn't be in this mess. I wouldn't vote for him for dog catcher. It's not altogether his fault, but I blame Reagan for trying to cut (social security)."

Mary E. Hocker, Granite City

"I think it can make it on its own if certain things are taken out. That money has been used to send kids to school and it was never intended for that. I've paid into social security since it started and I want my benefits. I think this administration would like to take it away from us."

Janet Wilson, Granite City

"The social security system will not survive unless we get rid of certain things. It was originally intended to supplement retirement, but they've added so much to it that we cannot possibly support it. The children of the '60s will never be able to support it."

Barton, Toffant deserve victory

Following are the Press-Record's recommendations in federal, state and county races, leaving out unopposed candidates.

FOR U.S. REPRESENTATIVE in the 21st Congressional District—We believe Democrat MELVIN PRICE deserves another two-year term; he has served continuously for 38 years and heads the Armed Services Committee. We are impressed with Republican Robert Gaffner and do not hesitate to say he merits serious consideration. However, Cong. Price's record and seniority cannot be overlooked.

FOR STATE SENATOR—We endorse the popular Democrat incumbent, SAM YADALABEN. His Republican opponent, Richard "Rick" Moulton Jr., admits he is on the ballot for name recognition and experience. Running is a losing battle for Moulton, though not a winning one. No one works harder than "Senator Sam" in a campaign or in the legislature.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER—From the vantage point of the Quad-City area, Republican BOB BARTON seems to hold the edge. Incumbent County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus, a Democrat, has done a generally good job in a difficult office, but the recent fight against township collectors and Henkhaus' handling of local banks put the scales in Barton's direction.

FOR SHERIFF—Democrat EMIL TOFFANT of Madison deserves re-election. He took over an office which we were less than impressed and used sound ideas, such as a patrol car for each deputy, to improve patrols and law enforcement. We also like Republican Hance Bailey, who undoubtedly could serve effectively. But Toffant has done much to increase the effectiveness of the sheriff's office and should be given at least another term to complete the job.

Our choices for county board

There are few contested races for membership on the Madison County Board, which is a shame in light of the importance of the job. We hope that in the future more Republicans will consider seeking county board seats.

Here are our recommendations in the contested Quad-City area county board races and in Third Circuit judicial competition.

DISTRICT 16—We favor Democrat MORRIS MILES. He has been willing to attack difficult problems and get them resolved, particularly in the special sewer committee, which he heads. He is opposed by Republican ERIC L. McDowell.

DISTRICT 18—The many years of service devoted by Democrat WILLIAM PAT ANDERSON to the position earned him our endorsement over write-in candidate Pat Anderson of Granite City, a newcomer to politics.

DISTRICT 22—A tough negotiator and concerned fighter for keeping budgets balanced, Democrat HERBERT "JUNIOR" MILTON merits re-election. Richard L. Thomas, the Republican nominee, is young and may have much to offer, but Milton receives our endorsement because of his hard work and successful service.

DISTRICT 25—Democrat DONALD C. REA receives our backing on the basis of his many years in government. Republican Robert L. Braye is retired from a successful insurance career and has much to offer, including his time; he also deserves consideration.

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE (Harrison position)—Incumbent Circuit Judge George J. Moran Jr., Democrat, and Assistant Attorney General William C. Evers III, Republican, are pitted against each other. Both took a bad rap from the Bar Association poll, but pleasant surprises could be in store for both.

We lean toward GEORGE MORAN JR., because we believe he is sincere, dedicated and will best serve the Quad-City area and Third Circuit, although we acknowledge there should be Republicans on the staff of circuit and associate judges, now entirely of the Democratic party.

FOR RETENTION AS CIRCUIT JUDGE—We strongly feel Judge HORACE L. CALVO ought to be retained. He is well respected and has extensive experience. He deserves a large retention vote. We hope voters will not overlook this important green ballot.

'Yes' on bail and rate proposals

Quad-City voters will help decide the fate of a proposed Illinois Constitutional amendment "to permit a court to deny bail for offenses where the proof is evident or the presumption great and a sentence of life imprisonment may be imposed as a consequence of conviction."

We favor a Yes vote to give judges slightly more latitude, so they can temporarily keep behind bars suspects believed to pose a high risk to witnesses or other citizens.

The plan includes safeguards and has the backing of the Illinois State Bar Association and Chicago Crime Commission. Its goal is to retain in custody violent repeat offenders while they are awaiting trial. It would not hamper their access to a prompt and fair trial.

Approved 54-0 in the Senate and 155-1 in the House, it seeks to maintain a balance between rights of accused persons and rights of the community. The amendment is aimed particularly at "three-time losers" and others too desperate to remain available for trial.

CHERRY BALLOT

If three Madison County proposals are approved by voters, a tax rate of up to 2½ cents will be established for the Madison County shelter care home, a rate not exceeding 2½ cents will be created for the county's nursing home, and the present 10-cent rate limit on county highway taxes will be raised 2½ cents to a total of 12½.

As the ballot indicates, funds would be used to maintain the two homes; to provide their patients with maintenance, personal care and nursing services; and to preserve and improve deteriorating rural roads and shabby bridges.

A combination of higher costs, the recession and unemployment has squeezed the county government financially. Some officials believe that closing of the two homes will be unavoidable without the proposed taxation.

To offset their deficits, counties have had to be taken from the general fund, which itself has a rate limit of only 12 cents. The levies for the two homes would raise about $300,000 each.

Although it could be argued that the county need not compete with private homes for the ill and aged, some individuals and families cannot afford private care. County Nursing Home Administrator Billy Rainwater says the proposed tax rates would make the facilities self-sufficient in combination with the residents' payments, despite increasingly inadequate Illinois public aid levels.

Expenditures and income at the nursing home were $1 million and $854,000 in 1980 and $1.1 million and $900,000 in 1981. At the shelter care home, costs and revenue were $431,000 and $288,000 and then $439,000 and $319,000 in those two years.

Tax elections are difficult to pass in this day and age. Rainwater's viewpoint is that people would vote favorably "if they came out here to have a look. We are very proud of this place. We think we have the finest nursing home in this part of the state, maybe in the entire state."

Keeping in mind that the three rates being sought are relatively small per family, we recommend Yes votes.

Also on a cherry-colored ballot, residents of the Miracle Manor-Bellemeade Place street light district will decide whether to increase their present yearly tax rate ceiling by 17½ cents, from 12½ cents to 30 cents. Existing revenue has produced insufficient funds for street lighting electrical costs, jeopardizing the solvency of this special district.

Residents will need to weigh the cost against the value of such lighting, including its effect on public safety.

Judge says don't be scared into voting a straight ticket

To the Editor:

The present punch method of voting is the simplest means voters have ever used in the polling place. I have talked with several area mayors who say they are appalled by the lack of meaningful contact and help from Congressmen Price on their community projects.

Price's unwillingness to retire after 38 years in Congress is something that is hard to understand the only sure way they will not spoil their ballot.

Actually, about the only way a voter can spoil a ballot is by inserting it improperly in the voting machine. If this happens, the judges will provide another ballot.

Voters can punch a straight ticket and cross over and punch vote for any number of candidates on the other ticket. This cancels the straight vote for the candidate and gives the vote to the individual candidate punched. It's just that simple.

GOP chairman feels Price should be retired

To the Editor:

Mel Price has almost totally ignored his district during this election campaign. I have talked with several area mayors who say they are appalled by the lack of meaningful contact and help from Congressmen Price on their community projects.

Price's unwillingness to retire after 38 years in Congress is something that is hard to understand especially since he has been helped around by an assistant. I went to a meeting specifically to see Congressman Price. He had an opportunity to speak but did not. He made no moves to introduce himself to members of the community before or after the meeting.

The people of the 2nd District deserve a vigorous, articulate congressman like Bob Gaffner.

Why has the media largely ignored Price's physical condition and his absence from the district? Price has no residence in the district. Columnist Jack Anderson rated Mel Price as the most ineffective Congressman, largely because of his physical condition. We have a congressman's office that is basically on automatic pilot, run by the staff which was appointed years ago by Price.

When Price votes in Congress, he almost always votes with Teddy Kennedy and Tip O'Neill. Price is rated in the top one percent of the all time big spenders and high tax advocates.

If Price will not voluntarily retire when he should the voters should retire him by electing a fine qualified candidate who can work vigorously for his district, Bob Gaffner.

County GOP Chairman

Says Ryan is a qualified candidate for lieutenant governor.

To the Editor:

As a citizen or George H. Ryan, candidate for lieutenant governor of Illinois, I would like to submit a biographical sketch of his qualifications for this most honorable position.

During his legislative career, he has become an acknowledged expert in state finance, having served two terms on the Appropriations Committee, including one term as ranking Republican member.

Speaker Ryan has gained wide acclaim for his leadership in developing legislation to improve the business climate of Illinois and to bring new industry and jobs into the state.

During the 1980 session of the General Assembly, he was hailed for his leadership by both business and labor interests for his efforts to implement reform in the Illinois Workmen's Compensation Statute.

There are many other traits of his sincere and honorable character available. These are the ones that stood out in my mind of our immediate needs.

Cruise supports referendums for nursing, shelter care home

To the Editor:

On election day, Nov. 2, you will be asked to vote on two referendums: one for the Madison County Nursing Home and one for Shelter

Care.

The $625 increase on a $45,000 home that is assessed at $15,000 would amount to $3.75 of your tax dollar. This increase would generate $300,000 in tax money severely needed to offset a deficit at the end of the year. I feel the services rendered by these facilities are invaluable. The need to care for our elderly and infirmed, is of the utmost importance. It seems little to ask in return for the generation who took care of us.

Fire pit to warm skaters at Wilson Park Ice Rink

By PATRICK POLEY
of the Press-Record
The Granite City Board of Park Commissioners on a vote of 3 to 2 last night approved the immediate use of the open-fire warming pit adjacent to the Wilson Park Ice Rink. Voting against using the pit were Board President George Sykes and Commissioner Barry Loman.

The commissioners agreed that additional safety measures will be necessary during its use and that a fire extinguisher should be installed nearby. It was noted that the Granite City fire chief and the district's insurance company have no objections to using the pit, which is located near the west corner of the ice rink, behind the concession stand, with access only from within the rink area.

A discussion ensued about the possibility of having an eight-foot diameter safety screen made to be placed over the pit, but the idea failed for lack of a motion. Bids for a new pickup truck were opened. Seven bids were received including two from Granite Chrysler, Plymouth, one each from B.E. Hohl Ford, Matthews Chevrolet, GMC St. Louis Truck Center and two bids from Big 4 Chevrolet in Collinsville. Sykes directed the engineering committee to evaluate and make a recommendation at continuation of last night's meeting, recessed until Thursday, Nov. 4.

The board also received two bids for two surplus trucks, both from 111 Auto Parts. The bids were for $125 each and the commissioners accepted both. The bidder was to be notified and given 10 days to pay in cash and pick up the two trucks.

A lengthy discussion centered on updating the park district's insurance on various buildings. Charles Meyer, representing the Steele-Kunemann Agency, explained the recent appraisals of the district's buildings and the need to bring coverage on these buildings to at least within 90 percent of the insurable value.

After several questions were answered by Meyer, the board approved 100 percent insurance on all of the park district's buildings, but directed Meyer to have several structures reappraised before the new policy is drawn up.

The park district office building and attached garage and tool house are to be reappraised, in addition to the ice rink warming pit. Commissioners voiced much concern on the appraisal of the ice rink, since the largest loss would be the roof, which is one-of-a-kind and is primarily wood. Several contended that replacement of the roof could exceed the present insurable amount, reminding the board that the roof cost was about one-third of the $500,000 price of the ice rink structure.

Also to be reappraised is the concession and restroom building at Worthen Park. The possibility of appraisals by an outside firm, if the board still is not satisfied with the reappraisals, was discussed and tabled until the reappraisals are received and evaluated by the commissioners.

A resolution was passed by the board naming John Lakin, director of recreation for the park district, as delegate to the Illinois Association of Park Districts' annual business meeting scheduled for Nov. 18 through 21 in Rosemont, Ill.

The board approved a request by Leigh Heller of Granite City School District Nine for use of the ice rink for school district skating classes. The rink will be used for a six-week period in January and February of next year.

The agreement specifies a $10-per-hour fee for the class and a 25-cent skate rental fee to be paid by the students at each session.

The commissioners gave unanimous approval of three recommendations for the annual service awards to be presented at the sports award banquet scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 16. The board also added one other name to the list for the special honor.

Final approval of the Appreciation Award recipient, also announced at the sports banquet, was tabled until the recessed meeting Nov. 4.

The recessed meeting will begin at 6:30 and will immediately go into executive session on a personnel matter. Other specific items to be discussed or acted upon during the public portion of the meeting are the awarding of the truck bid, lighting of the West Granite City Park and the possible celebration of the Thanksgiving Day eve meeting date.

The board will go back into executive session with Superintendent of Parks and Recreation David Nolan at the end of the public meeting.

Commissioner Loman voiced his displeasure with the procedure in which recommendations to the board are given by the park superintendent. He cited several cases of tentative approval being given by the superintendent before the board was able to discuss and take action on a particular request.

Ten years for armed violence

A ten-year state prison sentence was ordered Monday by Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick for Thomas K. Montfort, 27, Louisville, Ky., in the slaying of a 23-year-old Granite City woman's throat July 18.

Pleading guilty, Montfort received ten years for armed violence and a concurrent five-year term for theft of her 1976 auto. He has been in custody in lieu of a $100,000 bond.

A Vietnam war veteran on probation after conviction on a sex change in Kentucky, he moved from his mother's home in Louisville to Granite City.

Robin Kee of the 2300 block of Benton Street said they were considering marriage after writing as "pen pals."

After she put her infant son to bed, she was forced to lie on the living room floor, it was alleged; he sat on her, began inflicting serious wounds with two knives, and started calling her names.

One of the weapons was a butcher knife. Saying he was sorry for what he had done, he had her wrap her neck in a towel while he gathered his belongings. He forced her to mop up blood stains on the floor and to write two notes, court records say.

One note gave permission to take her car out of Illinois to any of three states, and one said an intruder had attacked her while Montfort was absent.

No bus tax hike for next 10 years--Haine

Angered at being bypassed over proposed doubling of local mass transit taxes, the Madison County Transit District board rejected the Bi-State Development Agency proposal Tuesday and urged that Illinois legislators defeat any related legislation.

The board unanimously voted down a plan which "assumed" that local taxation would be changed from a quarter-cent of the sales tax on each $1 to a half-cent July 1, 1984.

"It's just unbelievable," Mrs. Susan Schold, manager of the district, commented. "This kind of strategy, worked out without any input from us, is very detrimental."

Madison and St. Clair counties were not consulted when the agency developed the tax hike proposal. Bi-State is citing a pattern of decreasing federal transit subsidies in the 1980s.

"Madison County has its own transportation improvement program already. We don't need Bi-State telling us to raise taxes left her home, warning her to keep still because Vietnamese and Japanese were lurking nearby; he said a medic would be arriving soon.

She summoned police and was taken by ambulance for hospital treatment. When police contacted him by telephone, he returned her auto and surrendered.

for the improvement program," Board Chairman William Haine asserted. "It's insulting and outrageous."

The local district utilizes much of its money for Bi-State bus routes and has obtained service improvements—deleting some routes and adding others—but also purchases other services not related to the St. Louis-based agency.

Madison County Transit provides grants to non-profit groups that operate vans for the aged and handicapped; this program is being extended for another 15 months after proving successful in the first seven months.

Madison County also has started a van pool program in which groups can receive a van and drive to work at a lower cost than if each commuter operated his own auto. A sixth van is being placed in use.

A park-ride express bus parking lot has been created in Edwardsville. Another lot is being prepared in Alton, and one is planned in Collinsville.

Bi-State presented its program last week to the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council's executive advisory committee. The council of governments has jurisdiction over regional transportation planning, including highways and bus service.

Haine and Mrs. Schold said they were unaware of the plan until reading about it in newspapers.

The chairman said, "They know we have our own program. Our contract with them, at the very least, mandates a phone call from them saying this sort of document is being submitted."

The manager said reserves are being built in awareness that more funds will be needed in future years to purchase transit services. With such reserves, no tax boost will be warranted, she added.

The existing tax has been in effect nearly two years.

The district was created in December 1980. The Gateway Council advisory panel rejected Bi-State's proposed five-year program but recommended approval of the one-year plan.

The Madison County district's resolution, adopted Tuesday and being sent to area legislators, opposes any rise in the quarter-cent tax for the next ten years.

Appoint McKinney President

Laclede Steel Company yesterday announced the retirement of Robert S. Turner as president and chief executive officer, effective Jan. 1, 1983, and the election of John B. McKinney as president and chief executive officer. The transition was made by the Laclede Board of Directors at its regular October meeting. Turner, 63, who has been employed by Laclede for 37 years, decided to retire at the end of the year in order to spend more time with his family. He will remain as a director of the company.

McKinney, 49, was educated at St. Louis Country Day school and was a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Virginia, where he graduated in 1954. He served as a first lieutenant in the United States Army from 1954 through 1956, when he joined Laclede as a sales trainee. After serving as a salesman in Houston, Texas, McKinney was promoted to St. Louis district manager and, subsequently, to sales manager for the company. In 1976, he was appointed vice president of sales, a post in which he served through January, 1981, when he was appointed executive vice president of the company, his present position.

McKinney has served as a member of the Laclede Board of Directors from May, 1981, to the present. McKinney currently is a member of the board of directors of Stark Brothers Nursery and is a member of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Commenting upon McKinney's election as president, Turner said: "During his 26 years with Laclede, and particularly since his appointment as executive vice president in January, 1981, John McKinney has acquired a strong knowledge of all aspects of the steel business. He was deeply involved in the implementation of the recent successful cost-reduction program at Laclede and has worked closely with the company's outside consultants reviewing the company's basic production and marketing strategies. He is well suited to the task at hand and will, in my opinion, make a first-rate chief executive officer."

Stix funds

Brimbry's involvement in Miller Excavating, the Indiana-based company, in 1977, at Brimbry's direction, Miller opened a bank account at Cottoonwood Bank and Trust Co. under the name of Rimeco, the grand jury contends.

Through about November, 1981, more than $1 million was withdrawn from Miller's Stix account, of which approximately $380,000 was deposited to the Rimeco account, Miller and the Rimeco account was used "to conceal from the Internal Revenue Service the fact that no taxes were being paid on the money withdrawn from defendant Arthur Miller Jr.'s Stix account," according to the grand jury's allegation.

Stix checks payable to Miller were deposited at various times in the Rimeco bank account, the grand jury charges. The Rimeco account was used "to conceal from the Internal Revenue Service the fact that no taxes were being paid on the money withdrawn from defendant Arthur Miller Jr.'s Stix account," according to the grand jury's allegation.

THE BEDNAR INDICTMENT
In a separate indictment issued by the grand jury, Leonard Bednar, former vice president, shareholder and member of the board of directors of Stix, is charged with making false declarations to the grand jury and maintaining certain false books and records at Stix.

The indictment notes that between 1979 and 1981, Bednar was operations manager of Stix and supervised all employees in the "back office," where securities were received and delivered and proper margins were computed for customers.

Bednar was described as Brimbry's direct supervisor from 1976 to 1979, while Brimbry was a margin clerk.

It was Bednar's responsibility to see that all margin accounts and loans to customers were secured by adequate collateral "so that Stix & Co. would be a solvent operation," the jury notes.

It is alleged that Bednar "applied commissions on a fifty-fifty basis with Thomas Brimbry on 10 margin accounts, which margin accounts were not collateralized by adequate security."

It is charged that between 1977 and 1981, Bednar earned approximately $300,000 in compensation from Stix, the majority in commissions on these 10 accounts.

The indictment alleges that lack of collateral in these accounts caused Stix to become insolvent and the company went into bankruptcy in 1981.

Bednar appeared before a federal grand jury in Missouri Feb. 26 and 28, 1982, and allegedly made false statements concerning failure to mail proper forms to the IRS and denying conversations with Brimbry about the former's tax returns.

The jury alleges that Bednar told Brimbry not to mail IRS forms 1087 and then lied about it.

The indictment also says that Bednar lied when asked if Stix employee Alice Eades warned him that Brimbry had ordered her to delete certain dividend income from the Stix computer printout throw away any backup paper relating to the dividends.

A third count alleges that Bednar lied by telling the grand jury he had never met J.A. Miller when Bednar had filled out a new account card for Miller in the summer of 1981 and bequeathed it to show that it was prepared in 1981.

The fourth count of the indictment alleges that Bednar falsely maintained books and records of Stix, in violation of the United States Securities Exchange Act, by opening a new account for J.A. Miller's margin account.

THE MAERAS CHARGES
The grand jury did not indict Jerry S. Maeras of Madison but a criminal informational document was issued by Terry I. Adelman, assistant United States attorney, Eastern District of Missouri, and Roland P. Kane, special assistant U.S. attorney for the same district.

The document charges Maeras with one count each of conspiracy, securities fraud and mail fraud. Jerry Maeras is the son of the late Stephen Maeras, mayor of Madison for many years, and is the nephew of the late John Maeras, former Madison County sheriff.

Jerry Maeras maintained two customer accounts at Stix in the names of Maeras Enterprises, Inc., and Jerry Stephen Maeras, in which securities were bought and sold, the document says.

Between about February, 1977, and November, 1981, Maeras, Maeras, Skinner and Brimbry conspired with each other and with "other persons whose names are known and unknown to the grand jury" to obstruct the Department of the Treasury in determining proper income taxes, it is alleged.

Maeras participated with Brimbry and Maeras to create subordinated loans at Stix in the maiden name of Maeras' wife, Alma E. Shaw. It is alleged, she is not charged with any wrongdoing.

Approximately $150,000 in loans were made to Stix from the Shaw account, primarily with money withdrawn from the Maeras Enterprises account, it is asserted.

False records were created concerning the loans and were filed with Stix, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD) and the Securities and Exchange Commission; those documents were signed with the signature Alma E. Shaw but Jerry Maeras forged the signature, it is alleged in the indictment.

Maeras received monthly interest checks on the loans and allegedly shared the interest with Brimbry.

Interest between about February, 1977, through November, 1981, totaled in excess of $83,000 and was split 50-50 between Brimbry and Maeras, it is alleged.

Maeras allegedly deposited the interest checks after about March, 1977, into the Alma E. Shaw checking account at the Heritage Bank of Granite City and failed to report the income interest payments of about $18,000 on his income tax forms for the years 1977 and 1978.

Maeras' net income is contained in the indictment. It is charged that in his 1980 tax return, Maeras listed interest income from the loans as $8,300, although half of the money went to Brimbry and was not claimed on Brimbry's return.

False documents related to the Shaw account and loans, and false income tax returns were transmitted through the U.S. mail, as were customer monthly statements from Stix "for accounts which reflected Maeras Enterprises and Jerry S. Maeras as the beneficial owners when, in fact, Thomas R. Brimbry was a concealed beneficial owner of the accounts," the document alleges.

Maeras also is charged with mailing to Stix signed audit confirmation cards to confirm the accuracy of monthly statements on the accounts ZRAM Enterprises, JAM Enterprises, Arthur Miller Jr. and Rimeco and signing the audit reports of the accounts of Dr. Andrew Shaw, John Maxwell, Arthur Miller Jr. and Joseph Miller, "all at the direction of Thomas R. Brimbry," according to the informational document.

It also charges that between about January, 1977, and November, 1981, Maeras bought securities for his two accounts with funds Brimbry had misappropriated from Stix, knowing that he (Maeras) had not supplied any funds to purchase the securities.

Maeras, at Brimbry's direction, also allegedly opened an account about July, 1978, at the brokerage firm of Wilson & David, and from then through December, 1979, used Stix funds to purchase 14,000 shares of King International Corp. at a cost of $11,107, the document charges.

At all times, it is alleged, Maeras knew that the true beneficial owner of the securities was Brimbry, it adds. At Brimbry's direction, Maeras also opened a brokerage account with Shearson Hayden Stone's (Shearson American Express) Las Vegas office about August, 1979, and from then through December, 1979, purchased 8,000 shares of Victoria Station, Inc., at a cost of $326,823, the document contends.

It is alleged that Stix funds provided by Brimbry were used to purchase the shares and that Maeras concealed the fact that Brimbry was the true beneficial owner of the securities.

Firefighters approve no raise contract

The Granite City firefighters' union has agreed to an agreement with unchanged pay and benefits this year in exchange for the package coming under the umbrella of a formal one-year signed contract.

James Strack, president of Local 253 of the International Association of Firefighters, said that since 1967, the union has been relying on its last signed contract with the city. After that time, council ordinances have dictated a series of unsigned agreements between the two parties.

Union members agreed to a membership meeting Oct. 13 to accept the new contract concept and no pay raises, according to Strack.

The union has apparently given up attempts to secure a promise of a pay raise next year in return for asking for no increases this year. That stance resulted in an impasse this summer with city negotiators, who have been instructed to give out no employee raises while the city works to free itself from debt.

Fourth Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak, a member of the council, told the council Tuesday that she had just received a copy of the proposed contract from the union and would submit it to the city attorney for review. The contract also will be reviewed by the negotiators before it is presented to the council.

Mrs. Perjak said the negotiating committee has objections to a signed agreement with the union.

Strack said union members want the agreement in contract form. He said their former contract has been rewritten by the union's attorney to follow legal form.

The new contract is intended to incorporate past city ordinances regulating the firefighters. One change in the contract, said Strack, would be a separation of seniority lists between paramedics and firefighters, if the city decides to initiate the paramedic program in the future.

The stalled paramedics' parity of pay is included in this year's contract.

In other negotiation business, Mrs. Perjak said, talks are still deadlocked with the police department union members.

BAND PERFORMS
On Saturday, Oct. 30, "Phantom," a new rock band will perform during the public ice skating session at the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

Legion to dispose of flags with ceremony

American Legion Post 113 will conduct a formal and dignified flag-burning ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday at the post home, 1825 State St.

Quad-City area residents having American flags which are weather-beaten, worn or deteriorated are being invited to bring it to the Legion for the ceremony, which is the only proper way to dispose of the colors, said Post Commander Harold Chandler.

The ashes will be buried following the event, which will be open to the public.

Several area organizations have been invited to participate in the ceremony and Mayor Paul Schulz will deliver the opening address.

Those wishing to bring flags in advance of the ceremony may leave them at the Legion any day after noon, Chandler said. A dance and social period will follow the ceremony.

GC schools survey parents for federal reimbursements

Granite City Community School District 9 is eligible to receive federal funds for each student whose parents work for a federally-funded project. Every student in the district will be given a survey form Friday, Oct. 29, and should return the form, regardless of eligibility, Vasil Eftimoff, administrative assistant for pupil personnel services, said.

Each survey card should be completed according to instructions and dated by the student's parent or guardian. Military personnel must indicate their Social Security number and rank.

Residents and employees of the Granite City Army Installation, Chain of Rocks Canal & Lock No. 27, and Kirkpatrick Homes qualify the school district for additional federal aid, Eftimoff said. Any military personnel stationed in the U.S. or overseas and any construction workers employed on federal property on the date of the survey also provide eligibility for the district.

The course should be of great value to professionals whose work includes a large amount of interpersonal communication, such as personnel officers, counselors, clinicians, journalists, nurses and physicians, as well as others who want to know more about what people are saying when they are not talking.

The petit theft charges stem from an incident that occurred Dec. 19, 1981 at the Venice Bi-Rite. Fellowships available at SIUE

The Association of Records Managers and Administrators, Inc. (ARMA) and the American Association of University Women (AAUW) have several fellowships and awards available to persons who would like to receive advanced education at the university level. According to Forence Gillig, representative of both organizations on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, the ARMA scholarship fund will award a scholarship annually in the amount of $2,300 to a full-time undergraduate student, graduate student, or full-time teacher or professor specializing in records and information management.

The educational foundation of the AAUW has fellowships available to women of distinction, both in this country and abroad. The foundation awards post-doctoral, dissertation, and selected professions fellowships to women who are citizens or permanent residents of this country and who have achieved distinction or promise of distinction in their fields.

Mrs. Gillig said there are no restrictions as to the field of the applicant or to the field, except for selected professions fellowships which are limited to the fields of law, dentistry, medicine, osteopathic medicine, veterinary medicine, architecture, and business administration. Awards are based on the significance of the applicant's research or study and her qualifications to pursue it.

The organization also provides fellowships for advanced study and training for women of outstanding ability who are citizens of countries other than the United States, Mrs. Gillig said. There are no restrictions as to the age of the applicant or the field of study. "Upon return to their own countries, fellowship recipients are expected to provide effective leadership in their fields," she said.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Gillig in the Office of the President by telephoning 1-692-2517.

Fahner citing his experience, Hartigan offers regional offices

Is the furious campaigning for the office of Illinois attorney general giving voters a bit of a headache? Well, if it is, they can always swallow one of those well-known pain remedies.

The cyanide-laced Extra Strength Tylenol capsules that killed seven Chicago area persons also may be giving Neil F. Hartigan a pain.

The Democrat, 44, who was lieutenant governor in 1973-76, was believed to be far out in front for election on Nov. 2 as attorney general. But the 39-year-old incumbent's big role in the multiple murder investigation is said to be helping him (Tyronne Fahner) gain favorable name recognition in the populous Chicago metropolitan area.

In public debating the campaign neared an end, Fahner said Hartigan would be incapable of coordinating the murder probe. The present attorney general several weeks ago called in several agencies to help him coordinate the probe and has been acting as the group's spokesman.

Fahner called his foe "a master politician and even a pretty decent guy, but he's singularly unqualified for the job of attorney general."

Hartigan responded that he did not expect a high rating from someone "who is behind in points in the polls. The incumbent's background is basically in criminal law, but the proper role for this office is civil law, as an advocate for public causes. We're not running for state's attorney; we're running for attorney general."

Fahner, a former state law enforcement director, countered that Hartigan "has not been in a trial court in the past several years, and perhaps never."

A new poll has shown the Democrat holding at about 49 percent support and the Republican making up ground, advancing from 32 to 37 percent backing.

Hartigan has been a senior vice-president of the First National Bank of Chicago in recent years and has not held public office since the Walker administration. Fahner was appointed two years ago as attorney general, succeeding William Scott.

In a talk in Granite City this fall, Hartigan stressed his view that the attorney general could "work for the people instead of the governor" and ought to take a variety of steps to solve Illinois' problems, including current high unemployment.

Fahner says his opponent does not understand the office and is a creature of the Chicago Democratic machine, promising almost anything.

He called it a "dumb statement" after Hartigan suggested the attorney general could exercise working for state agencies.

Both aspirants claim that the truth in pre-election talks.

Hartigan says the incumbent has failed to adequately protect consumers and the environment and has run "an office based on press releases. His record simply not a good record. Hartigan, it might be noted, also is no slouch at issuing press releases to publicize his campaign statements; dozens have been received by Illinois newspapers.

Fahner, who once served in the U.S. attorney's office in Chicago, notably has been instrumental in the passage of anti-crime legislation and in the creation of a special division to help local authorities investigate and prosecute criminal cases.

Hartigan has once served as attorney for the Chicago park district. As lieutenant governor, he kept busy and developed programs for senior citizens and the handicapped.

He believes Fahner defines the attorney general office too narrowly, as role. Hartigan favors "public interest representation," including defending individuals against abuses by government bureaus.

The Democratic nominee cites a report by the Congressional Committee on Aging that "Illinois is one of the two worst states in prosecuting Medicaid provider fraud." Fahner says there have been insufficient federal funds for prosecution of such fraud.

Hartigan calls attention to a 50 percent loss record by Illinois in Medicaid trials, indicating either that "the wrong persons were charged, or guilty persons went free. This shows a profound lack of prosecutorial skill. In either event, the public was cheated."

He says that, since 1978, "Illinois has convicted only three nursing homes for Medicaid abuses. We seem to be making only a half-hearted effort to combat fraud."

This week, Hartigan urged that in its hiring, the state give priority for governmental jobs to widows and working-age children of police slain in the line of duty.

Third Circuit lawyers for Hartigan are being coordinated by George Moran of Glen Carbon and Lawrence Keshner of Alton.

Even though from Cook County, Hartigan is popular among Downstate voters, who give him a 53-35 percentage edge in October polling. The Democrat has a 51-37 lead among older voters but Fahner trails by only three percentage points among young Illinoisans.

One of Hartigan's most controversial stands favors a statewide ban on handguns, while allowing hunters to retain their shotguns. Fahner is against a statewide ban but backs cities making such a decision.

Both favor statewide gun curbs as a tool in fighting such problems as illegal drug distribution and abuse.

Fahner this month announced indictments charging nine Chicago area retailers with cheating the state out of $1 million in taxes. He said his office also will file civil suits in federal courts seeking triple damages.

The nine are charged with a total of 102 counts, including perjury, filing fraudulent returns, occupation tax returns and failing to file both state sales and income tax returns. Along with triple damages, he is asking for the $1 million tax liability, plus criminal penalties.

"I'm convicted under federal law, Illinois retailers can be sentenced to up to five years in prison. Under state law, they typically would be charged with a misdemeanor," Fahner said.

"The reason this is significant is that these people have not taken the state seriously. All they were worried about was getting caught and having their wrist slapped and maybe having to pay a little bit. Seeking federal penalties gives a lot of teeth to what is otherwise a poorly sanctioned part of the law."

Hartigan has given extensive emphasis during the campaign to his belief that the office should be reorganized.

His proposed citizen advocacy division would act in such fields as civil rights, utility cases, consumer protection and environmental control.

6 Estimating a total yearly cost to taxpayers of more than 250 million for state legal services, he argues that "taxpayers are not getting their money's worth."

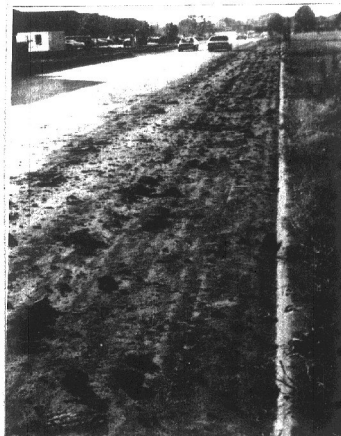

Hartigan proposes full-time, full-service regional offices, without increasing the attorney general's budget. A professional advisory board would set policies for regional assistants, and there would be less reliance on outside consultants.

6 Fahner supports the concept of part-time aides, describing them as having an unusual degree of expertise in needed legal specialties.

K of C fund raiser set

The words "Help Retarded Children" on orange-colored jackets will be displayed by an anticipated 10,000 Knights of Columbus workers and volunteers this weekend at a fund-raising effort for the mentally handicapped on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 29 and 30, sponsored by the Catholic fraternal society, is expected to set several records, according to Gus Sundermeier Sr., state charitable activities director for the K of C.

Not only will more people than ever before be involved in collecting contributions for the mentally handicapped, but the total donations during the two-day drive should surpass the $1 million record of last year by at least 10 percent, Sundermeier contends.

The acceptance and confidence in the Knights' benefit program is the basic reason for the expected increase in the annual fall fund-raising effort, the K of C state director says.

Nearly all of the money collected is returned to schools, homes, organizations and institutions for the mentally handicapped in the community where the donations were given.

About 265 local councils and lodges are participating this year.

Debate location of new Madison Amvets post

Contrasting feelings were expressed by a Madison homeowner and Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison when John Bellocchi, city clerk, read a request at the Madison City Council meeting for special use permit for the 1000 and 1700 blocks of Kennedy Drive for Madison Amvets Post 204 to construct a new post there.

"The Amvets Post has accomplished many outstanding projects and programs for the benefit of the community during the years and I feel civic organizations are the backbone of the community, Mayor Sasyk announced during the meeting.

"Veterans have given much for the country and their individual communities and I feel we should support them in this construction project," the mayor added.

Contrary to Sasyk's statement, Mrs. Chris Kosteck, who lives at 1616 Kennedy Drive, addressed the council on behalf of other residents along Kennedy Drive, and said they do not want a commercial building in the quiet residential neighborhood.

There was only one representative of the Amvets Post, who spoke at a zoning meeting prior to the council meeting, as compared to several Kennedy Drive residents who voiced their disapproval of the building, but the zoning board gave its endorsement to the Amvets, Mrs. Kosteck said.

After hearing both opinions, the councilmen voted to approve the request from the Amvets Post with a amendment to the building, fencing around the back of the parking lot; fencing and restriction of the playground to Amvets children; one entrance to Kennedy Drive, and purchasing of nearby railroad property for parking.

The Amvets met Wednesday night to open 10 bids from area general contractors who are interested in constructing the 80-by-110-foot building. The building will house meeting rooms for the post and will feature a large hall, which will be offered to the public for rental for social events, an Amvets member noted.

As soon as a contractor is selected, a $6,500 air compressor and, when the equipment arrives, it will be donated to the Madison Fire Department in return for fire protection, it was noted.

As soon as tax money is available to the organization and the air compressor arrives, the city of Madison will enter into a written agreement for fire protection, Mayor Sasyk explained.

Bills amounting to $52,996 for period Oct. 13 to Oct. 26 were approved by the council members for payment. Also the aldermen approved payment from Industrial Revenue Bond Fund of bills for $12,238 for the David Connole Alpine Village Shopping Center.

Invoices were for $5,338 to United Electric Supply, two for Reese Drug Stores for $983 and $5,893, and $25.50 for B & E Lumber Co.

An explanation was given on leaf burning within the city limits of Madison and it was reported there could not be any burning on streets or alleys that have an asphalt covering, only along the curbs of streets that are of concrete base.

Before agreeing to raise future rates, the council is undertaking a study to determine if the plant is overstaffed.

A regional concept could mean the addition of one or two additional staff members, the mayor said. Sverdrup and Parcel and Associates, Inc., St. Louis, was selected to conduct the latest study, which it estimates will cost between $25,000 and $35,000. A representative said the study could begin immediately.

According to that spokesman, the regional concept, if accepted, is about three years in the future. The city council has balked at raising its current sewer rates of $13 per quarter while the treatment plant's bond reserves and general fund indebtedness goes unpaid.

Madison police, firemen to aid trick-or-treaters

Mayor Mike Sasyk asked the Madison City Council Tuesday night to go on record in support of the police and fire departments' effort to patrol the city streets on Halloween night, Sunday, from 8 to 9 o'clock, for the safety of the children.

Youngsters who are going trick-or-treating are to be accompanying by an adult member of their family, go only to homes with porch lights on and stay within the immediate block of their homes, the mayor explained.

All parents are advised to be sure their child is home by 9 p.m. the mayor added.

WARRANT ARREST Sean A. Jenkins, 18, of 1320 Joy Ave., was arrested there at 9:35 p.m. Monday on an active warrant alleging failure to appear in court on a charge of not having a valid registration. He posted at $52 cash bond and was released.

Jobs important issue at GC Steel variance hearing

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

The Illinois Pollution Control Board hearing Tuesday night resembled more a public rally for jobs than a gathering of testimony on a pollution variance request.

Dr. John G. Manda, vice president of environmental control for National Steel's Granite City Steel Division, in his testimony reached back to cite Granite City's 1980 layout as an "industrial-residential" community. The turnout at the hearing seemed to demonstrate the depth of the city's historic roots and its reputation as a steel-town employer.

The $65 million coke oven project promises to employ 400 construction workers at its peak and is expected to eventually give work to 43 permanent employees. The Pittsburgh-based steel corporation has requested a variance from state regulations to allow intermittent, uncontrolled pushing of coke in open cars during certain phases of the construction period.

With citywide unemployment standing at 17.8 percent and out-of-work statistics exceeding that figure for some trade unions, petition-bearing labor spokesmen appeared at the hearing to urge granting of the variance. Earl "Bucky" G. Gruber, president of the Southwestern Illinois Building and Construction Trades Council, introduced three other labor leaders present to support the company's request.

Among those attending were Robert A. Weiss, Bricklayers of Southwest Illinois Local 65; David C. Higgins, International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, Local 392; Art Griffin, Laborers Local 397; Jerry V. Wray Sr., International Union of Operating Engineers, Local 320, and Elmer "Red" Hager, Bolnmakers Local 383.

Reading a statement of Dean E. Turner, secretary-treasurer of the trades council, Gruber said unemployment in some unions is as high as 30 percent. Turner stated he supports environmental controls and was satisfied with the steel company's past pollution control efforts during similar coke oven rebuilding projects.

Griffin, calling Granite City Steel the area's largest industrial employer, said the project would mean a $16 million payroll for local workers.

Alan G. Richardson, executive vice president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, was among three economic advocates citing the value of the company's expansion plans in a difficult economic period for the area. He said the area has not yet recovered from the closing of the former

A.O. Smith Corp. automotive frame manufacturing plant, which employed about 1,800 workers.

Employment at Granite City Steel itself is down by about 1,300 workers. Also testifying in behalf of the variance request were Robert Walters, executive director of the Southern Illinois Industrial Association, and Clyde Wiseman, director of energy and environmental affairs for the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association.

According to Wiseman, a turnover of capital equipment, represented by the new coke ovens, is one of the best ways to achieve environmental control.

Fourth Ward Alderman Carl Kittel and Granite City resident Joe Holzner were the only two to question the variance. Kittel did not oppose the request, but suggested a state inspector be on site during all phases of the construction project, "not only to monitor and assist Granite City Steel, but (to) study and develop research data for the future." The cost for the inspector should be a responsibility of the steel company, he said.

Kittel has been concerned with the steel company's refusal to admit members of the city's own air pollution control division to inspect the plant.

Holzner, who told IEPA representatives the "lives and lungs" of residents are their responsibility, said he noted that St. Elizabeth Medical Center is only a few blocks away.

The variance petition was filed Sept. 2 by Granite City Steel as part of its project to rebuild 47 Battery "C" coke ovens from the ground up. Dr. Manda testified that 178 days would be the maximum number of days the plant would be in violation of pollution regulations during the 434-day construction period.

The IEPA already has recommended that the variance be granted. The Illinois Pollution Control Board is expected to give its decision in about 30 days.

HIGHER GAS COSTS TOPIC OF HEARING

At an Illinois Commerce Commission public hearing Tuesday in Springfield, witnesses opposed utilities charging consumers for expensive gas obtained from Algeria.

Utility officials said they have no other way of absorbing higher natural gas costs. They added that a proposed ban on passing along such expenses would be an attempt to control pipeline firms like Panhandle through regulation of distribution companies.

Madison redistricting is approved

by DONNA KIMBRO
of the Press-Record

Madison City Council Tuesday night unanimously approved a long debated and tedious redistricting proposal and rejected a resolution submitted by the Illinois Department of Transportation in conjunction with resurfacing Madison Avenue.

Alderman Don Reeves, representing five senior aldermen who worked on the redistricting plan, explained that each of the new wards will be given a new number clarification, with the exception of Ward One, which will remain the same. A vote taken at a public hearing Monday night on redistricting was four in favor of the plan and one against, but all aldermen approved the proposal Tuesday night.

After the April, 1983, election, two aldermen-at-large will be determined by a lottery-type drawing and they will serve until the next election in 1985. At that time, their terms will expire and the seats will be abolished according to law. Casper, Niblohsian, city attorney, said.

A letter of understanding from the Illinois Department of Transportation in regard to an agreement with the city of Madison on repaving Madison Avenue was rejected by the aldermen because the state now expects the city to pay all maintenance costs of traffic signal lights at Third, Sixth and 12th streets on Madison Avenue. Previously, the state was responsible for all maintenance and requested the lights be removed as unnecessary. The council disapproved, saying removal of the lights would harm businesses and speed traffic.

The aldermen expressed surprise when the letter read Tuesday night agreed to keep the lights operating, if the city agrees to pay for the maintenance of them.

Mayor Mike Sasek instructed the city attorney to send another communication to the state indicating the city's displeasure with the last-minute change in the original agreement.

Council members approved a request from the Illinois Department of Transportation, which is proposing to enter into an agreement with the Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis to reconstruct their railroad crossing at 16th Street and Madison Avenue. The crossing is leased to Granite City Steel.

The crossing will be closed for five days and traffic will be detoured to State Street for the period of time.

The approval was given only with the stipulation that the state will be responsible for any maintenance due to the increased usage on the detour route. A definite date for the closing on Madison Avenue was not established. Albert Hudzik, city comptroller, requested council approval to hire surveyors who will survey a tract of land in Maers Industrial Park which Wayne Lanter of Lanter Refrigerated Distributing Co., 3 Caine Drive, has offered to purchase.

Lanter's offer of $20,000 was for a tract of land formerly owned by Diamond Plating Co. and $10,000 for another parcel adjacent to the Lanter property. The businessman plans to build a $1½ million addition project to expand his business.

At the request of Chief of Police Donald Bridick, the council approved the purchase of a 1983 police vehicle to be used for patrol duty.

They also gave approval for Larry Piper to become a cadet on the fire department and noted he currently is enrolled in an emergency medical technician (EMT) class.

A letter from Melvin and Patricia Lee of Kimberling City, Mo., commending the Madison Fire Department for the way they used in extinguishing a fire on property they own in Madison without causing any undue damage, was read by Belloff.

Robbed by man with gun today

Kenneth Archer, operator of Ken's Lounge, 1599 E. 20th St., was robbed at 2:30 a.m. today by a man about 25 years old who had been drinking there since 1:30 a.m.

As the proprietor cleared the tavern, the customer lagged behind. While near the back door, the man said he had a gun he wanted to sell.

Displaying a .38-caliber nickel-plated revolver, the customer demanded Archer's wallet and took $295 from it.

The tavern owner next was forced to go to the cash register and hand over $212. The man ordered Archer outside and then walked away, heading east on 20th Street.

He was wearing a dark jacket, trousers and a baseball cap. Of thin build, 5-10 in height, he had long black hair.

DRIVING DISPLAY

A traffic safety exhibit called SAFE-D (State Agencies for Effective Driving) will be at St. Clair Square, Fairview Heights, Oct. 29 to 31, Secretary of State Jim Edgar has announced.

The exhibit will publicize the dangers of drunk driving and falling to use seat belts. The SAFE-D exhibit will visit 45 shopping malls and college campuses across the state and is an example of seven state agencies working together to reduce traffic accidents and fatalities by educating the public, Edgar said. The exhibit is free and open to the public. St. Clair Square is located at the intersection of Illinois 158 and Interstate 64.

Briarcliff church honors 97-year-old parishioners

The Briarcliff Pentecostal Church honored two 97-year-old parishioners, James M. Davis and Robert Blevins, at a recent service and dinner. Both men are charter members of the church.

Davis was born Aug. 11, 1885, near Cave-in-Rock and Blevins was born Sept. 10, 1885, in Union County.

Blevins moved to Granite City in 1920 and worked for several companies, including Granite City Steel, Commonwealth Steel and American Steel. After being laid off during the Depression, he worked at B & E Planning where he said he still makes frequent appearances to greet old friends and pass out advice.

Davis worked in various hospitals in the area as a nurse and also owned his own business as a coal dealer. At 70-plus years, Davis retired, but decided to go back to work and was the driver for the library's bookmobile.

He is a member of the Teamster's Union and was converted to the church on March 6, 1948, at the Dewey Avenue Pentecostal Church.

Voting may decide future of 2 county care homes

Edwardsville intelligencer
If there is one issue that generates strong emotion among voters and equally strong fear of that emotion among politicians, it is the question of the future of Madison County's two homes for the elderly.

The two facilities — the Madison County nursing and sheltered care homes — are widely regarded as well-run, exceptionally clean and highly efficient.

Yet both — certainly the sheltered care home are in danger of suffering substantial reductions in the services they offer because of lagging county finances. In fact, some county officials express fears that one of the two, probably the sheltered care home, may have to close its doors eventually.

All of the concerns stem from the same thing — a lack of money. Neither home can operate at anywhere near the break-even point, officials say, because a number of the residents are on public aid, which administrators readily point out does not pay the full cost of housing a person.

Beyond that, there also is a feeling among some county officials that the two homes should not be operated at a profit. "If they lose money, well, they lose money," is the sentiment of some officials.

But continued operation at a loss has taken its toll on the support the two facilities always have had.

That support has slightly eroded, although few County Board members will come right out and say they are against keeping either place open.

The financial situation of the county this year has "made things tough all over," as one official put it, and the nursing and sheltered care homes are no exceptions.

Projected deficits in the general fund of $2.2 million have placed all departments on the defensive concerning their budgets.

Department heads and elected officials have been asked to take cuts of 5 percent to 10 percent in an effort to reduce the level of spending in 1983.

But at the two homes, which are supported not only by special taxes but also by subsidies from the general fund, the situation is even more of a concern.

Two referendums will be on the ballot Nov. 2, concerning the homes.

Both ask voters if the special tax rate charged should be raised 25 percent to help increase operating revenues at the facilities. Nursing home administrator Billy Rainwater says the two referendums cannot be overstated.

"We have to have them if we are to continue at our present level," Rainwater acknowledged. "If they don't pass, well, for the good of the residents here, I just hope they do."

According to the administrator, the care at the nursing home and also at the sheltered care home "will suffer tremendously" should the measures fail to be approved.

The first casualty of such a failure, he said, would be employees and, subsequently, the residents. "If they don't pass I can foresee a lot of employees being laid off," he added. "That's the only place we can cut our budget. I still have to feed the residents and pay the utilities, so we can't cut there."

County officials say that if voters do approve the referendums it will mean another $350 in taxes for someone with a $45,000 home.

"This is all we're talking about," said one official who asked not to be identified. "A lousy $350. Sure, it's a tax increase, but look at the good it would do. It probably will mean the difference whether the homes stay open or not."

The referendums are expected to bring another $300,000 into the county's treasury. That would be $300,000 which would not have to come out of the lining general fund, officials note.

However, a number of board members are not as keen on keeping the two facilities open, especially in light of the projected deficits.

Some feel that the county "should not be in the nursing home business, anyway," while others feel the homes simply are too costly.

General-fund subsidies amounted to about $330,000 in 1982 for both homes.

"Quite honestly," one official said, "if these referendums don't pass, I would expect the sheltered care home to be closed before too long."

It is a prospect many officials feel borders on tragedy.

"We have an obligation to take care of our old people," one said. "How can you put a price tag on the care of the elderly? You can't."

"As far as I'm concerned, this is maybe the most important function of the government — the care and housing of our elderly," Rainwater said he thinks people might be in favor of the referendums if they were to see for themselves how the homes are operated.

"I just don't feel that people would vote against us if they came out here to have a look," he said.

"We are very proud of this place. We think we have the finest nursing home in this part of the state, maybe in the entire state."

Troop 7 receives honor certificate

During the annual Uniwah District Recognition Dinner, Boy Scout Troop 7, sponsored by St. Joseph Roman Catholic Church, received the National Honor Unit Recognition Certificate.

For 1982 the Boy Scouts of America again bestowed Honor Unit status on troops that meet certain standards at the time of charter renewal. An Honor Unit receives a streamer for the troop flag, and its members are eligible to wear the Honor Unit emblem on their uniform.

On behalf of the troop, Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Steve Kusmierczak Jr. and Senior Patrol Leader Kevin Williamson accepted the award at the dinner.

To earn the award a troop must meet at least seven of the 10 set requirements, and it is believed the troop met all 10 requirements during the charter year.

Some of the requirements for the award are: Re-registration on time, roll call and uniform inspection, have at least one assistant scoutmaster, have at least four courts of honor, provide the scouts with at least 10 days and nights of camping, regular meetings of the troop committee.

Attending the Dinner with Scouts Kusmierczak and Williamson was the Troop's Scouting Coordinator, Steve Kusmierczak Sr.

Luke 18:38 "...And he cried, saying, Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me."

One of the outstanding miracles of the Bible and is almost didn't happen! This man was blind and in a desperate situation. He had heard that Jesus could perform miracles. When Jesus passed by he cried out to him for mercy. He needed a miracle.

Then a strange thing happened. The people around the blind man began to rebuke him. They told him to keep quiet about his need! Thank God he didn't take their advice. He cried out the more. And this time Jesus stopped and asked him to come forward. He did and asked that he might receive his sight. Jesus simply said "Thy faith hath saved thee." And he was healed.

When you have a need don't hesitate to ask, to seek, or to knock. We have not because we ask not.

The Lord will have mercy on you.

TRIM A TREE CONTEST

with $800 to be awarded to local non-profit organizations, on the basis of popular vote in our showrooms!

Read how your non-profit club, auxiliary or organization can be a winner...then act at once, because participation is limited to the first 20 groups which sign up at FREDMAN'S.

1. Your club or group must enter in person in our store, by delegating one (1) or more persons to sign up for this contest. Who can enter? Any non-profit club or organization in Madison County — like a woman's club, fire company or auxiliary, neighborhood association, charity, scouting group, parent/teacher group, service or fraternal organization — any group at all, as long as it is a bonafide non-profit organization. Only the first twenty (20) organizations can participate, but Fredman's will accept additional registrations on a "waiting list" which will be used in the event any of the first twenty groups drop out before Trim-A-Tree Night, Monday, November 22, 1982.
2. Each club or group chooses a Trim-A-Tree Team of four (4) members, who will come to Fredman's on Monday, November 22, 1982, between 7 p.m. and 10 p.m. to trim one of our twenty trees. Fredman's will furnish coffee and cookies as refreshments that evening. Each club or organization will furnish its own materials for decorating the tree. You are urged to make your design as creative, simple, ornate, colorful or monochromatic as you like; your trimmings may include small electric lights if they are U.L. approved — but may NOT include candles or other decorations which pose a fire hazard, of course.
3. Fredman's will designate twenty (20) locations in our store at which 6-foot artificial trees will be provided. On Monday, November 22, group representatives will draw lots to determine the location at which each group will Trim-A-Tree. (Some trees will be on our Street Level and others in our Lower Level and Second Floor showrooms). Each group must complete its tree trimming at or before 10 p.m. that night. Fredman's cannot be responsible beyond the same exercise of care taken to protect its own merchandise — for loss of or damage to materials used by your group on trimming one of our trees.
4. Beginning on Tuesday, November 23, and continuing during our regular business hours through closing-time on Friday, December 24, 1982, the general public will be invited to visit our showrooms and — using ballots we provide — vote for their favorite tree. No purchase or other consideration is required, but Fredman's will ask that each person cast only one (1) vote per visit per day to our store. Prize winners will be determined solely on the basis of this voting. Sorry, no absentee ballots! Votes will be tallied, then the winner will be announced and prizes awarded in our store Monday, January 3, 1983.
5. FIRST PRIZE is Fredman's check for $250 and a commemorative plaque to the winning organization. SECOND PRIZE is Fredman's check for $100 and a plaque. AND THERE ARE 18 ADDITIONAL PRIZES, ONE FOR EACH RUNNER-UP: each organization which Trims-A-Tree is guaranteed our check for $25, as your minimum "reward" for participating in our Community Christmas Trim-A-Tree Contest!
6. Any person who votes during this event may do so without signing his or her name. BUT after the votes have been tallied, all those ballots which DO contain a "voters" name will be placed in a large box, and we will draw ONE name to receive — FREE — a beautiful BERKLINE RECLINER CHAIR VALUED AT OVER $400. (Anyone may vote, and be eligible for the drawing, EXCEPT employees of Fredman's, their advertising agency, or their families. NO PURCHASE REQUIRED and winner need not be present at the drawing.)
7. Each participating organization will be responsible for removing materials used to decorate its entry during the week of January 3, 1983, and not later than Fredman's closing time (5 p.m.) on Saturday, January 8, 1983.

Secretaries hear psychic program

The Tri-Cities Chapter of Professional Secretaries International held a monthly meeting at the Walton's Restaurant in Glen Carbon. The featured speakers for the evening were two local psychics, Louise Wade and Betty Miles. Mrs. Wade has been practicing for approximately 10 years and has taken many courses in the varied fields of psychic phenomena. She has recently returned to Granite City after having lived in Pompano Beach, Fla. She is presently employed by Penn Mutual Insurance as administrative assistant to the regional manager.

Mrs. Miles is a legal investigator for the law firm of Chapman and Carlson. She was recently named a certified legal investigator by the National Association of Legal Investigators. She received the certification after successfully completing written and oral examinations, and is one of only two women to be certified by the professional organization.

Their presentation for the evening was about the psychic value of gem stones. Mrs. Wade explained that stones have personalities and psychic vibrations. She went on to give a detailed explanation of various stones and what they symbolized. Each member was then allowed to choose and keep a stone as a good luck piece. For the conclusion of their program, they told something about each member, and everyone was amazed at their accuracy.

Guests present at the meeting included: Toni Phillips of Community Hospital in East St. Louis; Tami Griffing and Kathy Moore of Home Furniture in Collinsville; Gayle Donnelly of St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City; Rosalie Davis of Tri-Cities Area United Way; and Betty Bucatch.

The speakers for the November meeting will be the owners of "Happiness Is" in Collinsville. They specialize in dry and silk floral arrangements and will show how to clean your arrangements and how to make your own using items around the house.

If you are a local secretary and would like to know more about our organization contact Barbara Bauer, membership chairman at 344-4267 or 345-5413.

SIUE enrollment increases

Fall quarter enrollment at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is showing a slight increase over enrollment at this time last year.

Eugene J. Magac, director of admissions and records, has announced that student enrollment for the fall quarter is 10,288. Last year's enrollment was 10,205. The admissions director reported that the university is experiencing its largest number of new students during fall quarter since 1975. He defined new students as those freshmen, transfer students and graduates attending classes at the university for the first time. Overall, there are 2,517 new freshmen, new transfer students, and new graduates enrolled in classes this quarter.

The 985 students transferring from other colleges and universities to SIUE this fall represent the largest number of students in this category to register at the university during any quarter since the institution admitted its first students in 1957.

Magac also said that the number of part-time students at the university during the current quarter is higher than it has been during any fall quarter since 1978. There are 3,666 students attending the university on a part-time basis this fall, compared to 3,420 last fall.

Women continue to outnumber men in student enrollment, Magac said, with the number of female students taking classes at the University at 5,192 compared to 5,066 male students. This is the sixth consecutive fall session that female students have exceeded the number of males.

Magac reported that significant increases are occurring in the number of business and science and engineering students. This quarter, there are 1,402 business majors, compared to last year's enrollment of 1,365, while the number of science and engineering students climbed from 683 in 1981 to 729 this fall.

Erie Mills debuts in New York

Erie Mills, formerly of Granite City, had a busy day recently when she made her debut in Leonard Bernstein's "Candide" with the New York City Opera Company. Donal Henahan of the New York Times said, "Making debuts were two handsome and remarkably funny young ladies, Erie Mills as Cunegonde and Deborah Darr as Paquette. Miss Mills, who carried off the night's vocal honors with a dazzling 'Glitter and Be Gay,' is a real rarity: an intentionally humorous coloratura soprano."

Bill Zakariasin of the New York Daily News said, "Erie Mills as the doll-like but indestructible Cunegonde, sang her role... with golden-age panache." Harriet Johnson of the New York Post reported, "Erie Mills in her City Opera debut as Cunegonde was ideally cast, and she sang her long, jazzy coloratura aria with enviable vocal brilliance and ecstacy."

Mrs. Lula Mills, accompanied by Mrs. Josephine Jeffers, Helen Kuenzler, Ann Rich, Mrs. Phil Sheridan, Mr. Richard King, Patricia Dineff and her niece Jenny, witnessed a repeat performance with a standing-room only audience in the New York State Theatre at Lincoln Center.

Miss Mills was equally brilliant and was received with enthusiasm and delight. Other friends of hers joined the Granite City group at a champagne party following the performance.

Miss Mills, a 1971 graduate of Granite City High School, already has made appearances with the Chicago Lyric Opera and the San Francisco Opera. She has performed in numerous other cities, including Minneapolis, Louisville, Los Angeles, Tulsa and Houston. She will appear in "Candide" at the Chandler Pavilion in Los Angeles next month.

Belleville Area College plans a winter course to prepare students studying welding, or those presently working as welding inspectors for American Welding Society inspector qualification and certification.

The course will prepare students for possible qualification and certification as certified welding inspectors. When the course was offered in the spring, 90 percent of the students passed the certification test. The class will meet from 9 a.m. to 1:10 p.m. on Saturdays, beginning Jan. 22, for 10 weeks. The class will end about one week before the certification test is given in this area.

Weather phones offered

Captain Laimutis A. Nargelenas, Commander of Illinois State Police District 11, Maryville, advises that special weather phones, located at all state police headquarters, will again be utilized to provide from Nov. 1, through April 15, each year. The pre-recorded report is updated at 5 a.m., 11 a.m., 4 p.m., and 8 p.m., or more frequently if weather or road conditions change.

These weather phones were installed to provide motorists with accurate information about highway conditions (weather), and at the same time keep regular police lines open for emergency calls. The number for this area weather phone is: 345-1330. Captain Nargelenas stresses the importance of dialing the weather phone for information on highway conditions; if there is a busy signal, callers should wait a few minutes and dial again. The state police will notify local radio and television stations when extreme weather or highway conditions exist.

Comptroller Burris cooperates, Skinner would challenge bills

Election Nov. 2

Running for re-election as state comptroller, Democrat Roland W. Burris, 45, of Chicago is opposed Nov. 2 by Republican Cal L. Skinner, 46, of Woodstock.

Burris is running on his record, citing effective performance during the past four years. He has been a watchdog at one time cautioning the governor not to let reserve funds become excessive, and later warning that the coffers were too empty.

Skinner, a former state representative and former McHenry County treasurer, is pushing a plan to leave spending of the local portion of motor fuel taxes to township, county and municipal governments.

A consultant to House Speaker George Ryan, he says eliminating the requirement for prior Springfield approval would speed allocations and free $100 million to fix streets and roads.

He contends that massive escrow accounts are awaiting Illinois Transportation Department action. Skinner comments, "Since 1980, the state has trusted local governments to spend their 1-12th share of the state income tax without requiring approval of how the money is spent. I see no reason why detailed prior authorization should be required for expenditure of the local share of gasoline taxes."

He also would try to accelerate distribution of sales taxes to communities and counties. He wants to send 13 checks during the next 12 months to help agencies "make it through the recession, as was done for the Regional Transportation Authority in Chicago last year."

Skinner asserts that in collecting 4 percent state sales taxes and 1 percent local sales taxes, the state gets on the money for up to three months, earning interest by investing it for short terms.

He says that "if computer technology allows the speedup for the RTA, equal treatment should be given more established and more respected local governmental entities."

Burris, who is favored to gain re-election, is the first black elected to statewide office in Illinois. He is mentioned frequently as a possible candidate for mayor of Chicago in 1983, but denies that he will run.

He disagrees with Skinner's view that the comptroller should be vocal, utilize "the power of publicity" and say, "That isn't right. That shouldn't be done."

Burris notes that the office's investigative authority is limited and says Skinner's approach would be an abuse of power.

A former executive of the Continental Illinois National Bank of Chicago and of representative" in the state government.

He is even trying to be helpful in advance of the election by noting that only 42 percent of Illinoisans receiving a tax break through the homestead exemption program administered locally are receiving checks from Springfield. He thinks the figure ought to be less than 100 percent but higher than it is.

The candidate says, "Maybe it's because senior citizens have to fill out two separate application forms to qualify for both types of tax relief that so few have applied for a tax rebate for which they are eligible."

"Whatever the reason, everyone over 65 whose household income is less than $12,000 should get an application form from a local state legislator or the Revenue Department. The department's address is Box 3124, Springfield 62708. Ask for the 1981 state tax relief claim form. All eligible will receive a minimum of $80, so it's worth the effort to apply."

Skinner is proposing that the breaker program be changed to allow senior citizens and the disabled to budget only 4 percent for their property taxes, after taking into account the rebate check.

He relates, "My goal is to have seniors bear the property tax burden in a proportion to their household income that matches the average family. That's about 4 percent."

If Democrats are successful in controlling the state government Nov. 2, Skinner warns, "Illinois income taxes will be hiked a minimum of 40 percent. And don't forget Adlai Stevenson's plan to take $70 million of the $225 million he plans to raise from state gas taxes to finance Chicago's regional transit authority—a statewide 1 and 2-3rds cent per gallon RTA gasoline tax."

PARTICIPATE IN CPR TRAINING CLASS

Thirty-one teachers and parents in the Johnson School area participated in a CPR training class on Oct. 4 and 5. Mrs. Rebecca Seay, president of the school PTA, which sponsored the class, made the arrangements with Dick Mill, instructor, from the Thomas Mortuaries. Mizell teaches CPR classes in cooperation with the American Red Cross.

The CPR training consists of eight hours of instruction which may be divided into two four-hour sessions or four two-hour classes. During the eight hours attention is focused on methods to assist persons in respiratory arrest, procedures for persons who are choking, and CPR for infants and children.

Organizations interested in sponsoring the free CPR classes should contact Dick Mizell at Thomas Mortuary, 931-2121, or the local American Red Cross office.

The man behind 'TRON'

By BILL HAGEN

HOLLYWOOD — It sounds like a plot, such as it was, from an old "gee, kids, let's put on a show" movie.

The studio of late has been reeling a bit, and the search for a movie that will turn it around has become, if not yet desperate, at least anxious.

At this moment, who should arrive but an aspiring moviemaker, not yet 30, with an original and very intriguing idea. Moreover, it's an idea whose time definitely has come.

The studio was Walt Disney Productions; the moviemaker was Steven Lisberger. The idea with which he was armed was for a movie that would make extensive use of computer-generated images, capitalize on the then just burgeoning craze for video games and would, when completed, be titled "TRON."

Lisberger said he had approached a couple of other studios with the idea, and both had expressed interest. The interest waned, however, when Lisberger insisted that he be allowed to direct. It was, the studio decided, too great a risk to entrust a substantial budget to a young man who had never before made a feature film, no matter how good the idea. No deal.

"I just had to direct that movie," Lisberger said. "I had to. But they couldn't understand that. Or they wouldn't go along with it."

So it was on to Disney and a warmer reception. Lisberger, whose track record was mostly in animated short subjects, a few television shows, some commercials and a 90-minute animated feature for television called "Animapalooza," had his deal and all the pressure that went with it. And he was ready. "I had begun work on 'TRON' in 1978," he said, "mainly because I was totally fascinated with the beginnings of computer technology."

He was, himself, a videogame junkie for a while, he said, even before it became so fashionable — and profitable.

"Everyone's looking for new fantasies in the movies," he said. "We've created this world in 'TRON' by taking video games and just blowing them out to the point where they are a reality. At the point where the games met computer graphics, something came alive that hadn't been alive before. Video games were the basis for the fantasy; the computer imagery was the means to create it."

Lisberger is understandably ecstatic about the reaction — critical and commercial — to his movie, he said.

"I suspected we were going to be all right when I saw a line wrapped around a theater to see our movie," he said. "It's been a long time since Disney attracted such a crowd."

Still, his joy is not unrestrained.

"We spent much more time on the story and screenplay than on the effects," he said, "but the story apparently has been overwhelmed by the effects. As a writer, that doesn't make me feel great. I guess it's the price that's paid for breaking new ground."

Lisberger would like to think of "TRON" as, in a sense, the movie to turn the studio around is something Lisberger won't speculate about.

"It's making money and it's a success," he said. "That much I know."

Shoppers gathering 'Bucks' as GC Centre auction nears

Shoppers in Granite City are beginning to count their collections of "Bid-N-Bucks" in preparation for the "Bid-N-Bucks" auction at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Washington Ballroom, 19th Street near Edison Avenue. The auction is being presented by the Press-Record and the Granite City Centre group.

A Bid-n-Buck is being given for each dollar of purchases at participating Granite City Centre stores.

A Centre spokesman said, "For each dollar spent at any of the participating merchants, the purchaser will receive a dollar in Bid-N-Bucks. The more purchased, the more the customer will have with which to bid on valuable prizes at the auction."

"Granite City Centre merchants are giving double Bid-N-Bucks each Friday and triple Bid-N-Bucks every Tuesday."

"The opportunity to accumulate Bid-N-Bucks will continue each shopping day for the next six weeks, ending on election night."

"There also will be Bid-N-Bucks coupons and in-store specials offering additional Bid-N-Bucks. We urge everyone to watch the Press-Record for special Bid-N-Buck ads."

"More than $2,000 worth of merchandise will be auctioned, with the payment to be by Bid-N-Bucks only."

The evening of Nov. 2 at the Washington Ballroom, members of the Press-Record advertising staff will serve hot dogs and Pepsi-Cola.

The auction will be conducted by a professional auctioneer, Terry "Bones" Allen.

United Way 'Over the Top' breakfast Tuesday morning

Charlie Hester, owner of Charlie's Restaurant, will supply free breakfast from 6 to 9 a.m. Tuesday for the United Way "Over the Top" celebration.

Those partaking of breakfast will be asked to make a free-will offering to the Tri-

Cities Area United Way and its 15 member agencies.

The event is to assist the local United Way in exceeding its $625,000 goal this year. All proceeds from the breakfast will be distributed to United Way Agencies during the coming year.

Hester promises something special, compliments of the house, and he is hoping for good attendance from the general public. It is a chance for good fellowship, and enjoyable breakfast, something extra for the 1982 United Way campaign and, above all, a fine, public spirited gesture from Charlie Hester," said Larry Miller, UW executive director.

Coffee concerts open on Monday

The evening's performers will be pianist Marlon Lampo, woodwind player Janet Scott and soprano Sarah Turner. They will perform "Sonatine" by Ravel, "Pages d'Album" by Nerval and "Six Songs" by Faure.

Intermission will follow, and the program will continue with "Valse nobles et sentimentales" and "La Flute Chantee" by Ravel, "Deux Poemes Ronsard" by Poulenc and "Sonata for Flute and Piano" by Poulenc.

The dessert will be Bavarian apple-mut strudel and there will be unlimited cups of coffee and tea available.

Jobs saved with furlough plan

The equivalent of 300 jobs have been saved in state government through a furlough agreement reached last month by the state administration and several state employee unions.

Initial reports from state departments and agencies show that nearly 46,000 workdays were offered by more than 10,000 union and non-union employees, a response of 4.5 furlough days for each worker. This has generated nearly $3 million in projected furlough savings.

Tips for a safe Halloween

Trick or treat when it is light outside.

Wear a costume that makes it easy for you to walk, and see and be seen.

If you must go out at night, make sure your costume is a light color.

Carry a flashlight so you can see and be seen easily.

Use reflective tape on your costume so people in cars can see you.

Take off your mask before you cross a street so you can see better.

Why not use make-up instead of a mask.

Have a parent, older brother or sister go with you.

If someone older cannot go, trick-or-treat with a group of children.

Plan your route ahead of time; choose well-lighted streets.

Tell your family where you will trick-or-treat.

Cross only at corners. Never cross between parked cars or in the middle of the block.

If there is no sidewalk, walk facing the traffic.

Wait until you get home to sort, check, and eat your treats.

Have a safe and happy Halloween

Donnewald links jobs, funds; Dailey says 'tax limit' is issue

Who will be Illinois' next state treasurer? The office is being vacated by Democrat Jerry Cosentino, his party's nominee for secretary of state.

Polls indicate Republican John Dailey is the potential winner, although Democrats are counting on a recession-related backlash to help their state ticket. Both candidates suffer from many voters' unfamiliarity with them; neither has run statewide before.

The Democratic standard-bearer, selected in part to give Downstate Illinois one of the statewide posts on the ticket, is State Senator James H. Donnewald, 57, of Breese, well known and highly regarded in Madison County.

Dailey, 40, a Peoria banker and real estate developer, has made a lot of campaign hay by proposing a constitutional ceiling on taxes. He is said to have spent a fortune on television commercials, perhaps with an eye on advancing to other offices in future years. The treasurer is a low-visibility post but in the past it has been a political stepping stone for such individuals as U.S. Senator Alan J. Dixon and former Senator Adlai Stevenson, the 1962 Democratic candidate for governor.

Donnewald sees no role for the treasurer in establishing constitutional tax limits. He calls his opponents' advertising "deceitful. It looks good, but he's trying to fool everyone into thinking he as treasurer can do something about taxes."

Dailey says his foe's bank deposit proposal would reduce interest income for the state. He asserts that most state investments are for too short a term to allow the money to be reallocated for job-creating enterprises.

Dailey adds, "He wants to create a popular issue. He says, 'Let's use all the state's money and give it out in loans to create jobs.' This is a naive political move. It's not a well-thought-out idea. As to the need for tax ceilings, it's not a bogus issue at all. The state treasurer can provide an extra dimension of leadership on public issues, as well as any other official."

Donnewald admits that linking bank deposits to job formation would bring the state slightly less interest income than usual. But he says the jobs that would result would generate more tax revenue.

He adds, "I want to use Illinois' money to create Illinois jobs." He would place the deposits in financial institutions that agree to reloan the money to small businesses.

Dailey says the treasurer's job is to "invest state money at the highest possible interest rate, rather than going back to the discretionary political slush-fund days of yore."

Aware that he would be in his 60s upon completing a four-year term, Donnewald tells audiences, "I do not intend to use this as a stepping stone. I am running for treasurer, period."

Dailey responds, "I'm not running for this to run for something else. But if another opportunity comes along for higher office, fine."

For the record, the Illinois Constitution makes the treasurer responsible for "the safekeeping and investment of moneys and securities... and their disbursement upon order of the comptroller."

The Republican nominee says in some of his TV commercials that "the power to tax is the power to destroy. We've got to limit the power of politicians to tax us. As state treasurer, I'll lead the crusade to put that limit right into the constitution."

While declining to outline precisely how his plan would be implemented, Dailey says, "I'm not talking about a freeze or cuts, but limits.

"We have a bad tax structure. From looking at 22 other states, I believe a limit related to personal income probably works the best. I don't know at what level."

"We must allow for variations. A tax limit as a percentage of personal income would be predictable." A former top aide to the late Senate President W. Russell Arrington and former Gov. Richard Ogilvie, Dailey defeated Robert Blair for the Republican nomination as treasurer in March.

Donnewald, born in Carlyle, was educated there and in Joliet and in 1942-44 attended St. Louis University. He graduated from the Lincoln College of Law in 1949.

The veteran legislator served in the armed forces during the Korean war. He was elected Carlyle Township supervisor in 1949 and a state representative in 1960.

After two terms in the Illinois House, he was elected to the Senate in 1964 and then re-elected in 1966-70-72-74-78.

He has been an assistant Senate Democratic leader since the beginning of the 77th General Assembly in 1971. His record in the legislature has earned him such praise as "respected, capable and popular."

Donnewald has a law office in Breese and is a businessman. He has introduced legislation to limit campaign expenditures for all statewide and legislative races. It has not yet been acted upon.

The senator's reasoning: "Election spending has spiraled crazily upward to the point that only the independently wealthy can aspire to political office. Money should never be a barricade for a qualified candidate to serve the public."

FESTIVE GIFTS are arranged at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, 3025 National Ave., in preparation for the annual bazaar and turkey and ham dinner, to take place on Saturday, Nov. 6, from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tickets costing $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children are being sold by members of the congregation and will also be sold at the door. The public is invited to the fund raising event which will also feature a bake sale, according to Louise Jones, chairman. The Rev. John Read is the host pastor.

Gaffner would try to set 20-yr. limit

Robert Gaffner, Republican nominee for Congress, announced proposals Tuesday for limiting the terms of members of Congress.

He would seek to change the length of a term in the U.S. House from the current two years to four years and would limit the number of terms that any member can serve to five or a total of 20 years. Senate terms would remain six years but with a limit of four terms.

"One of the major reasons that Congress is so ineffective in dealing with the serious problems facing our nation is that members of the House start campaigning for re-election almost immediately after they are elected," Gaffner said. He called for new faces and "an infusion of fresh ideas."

Gaffner wants committees to choose their own chairmen, instead of relying on seniority.

Pioneers pummel Madison; meet South tonight

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor

MADISON — The Assumption Pioneers, a soccer team that entered post season play with a season record of 0-19, defeated Madison 5-1 Tuesday afternoon in first round regional action. The victory earned Assumption the right to play Granite City South this evening in the second round of regional play.

Madison's Kevin Smith scored in the final minute of the first quarter, but after that it was all Assumption.

It was not a promising situation for Madison even before the first whistle. Five of Madison's starters were suspended from Tuesday's game for "disciplinary reasons."

All five, regular starters for the Trojans, were instrumental in Madison's two regular season victories over the Pioneers.

On Sept. 8, Madison defeated Assumption 4-3 in overtime for the Trojan's first win of the season. Then on Sept. 30, Madison defeated Assumption for the second time this year 3-1. But Tuesday, Assumption reversed roles to put the Pioneers into post season play.

"Realistically, I know we don't have a chance against South Thursday," Kelleher said. "The way I look at it, it'll give these kids a good chance to see some fine high school soccer."

Madison
Trojans

Coincidentally, Kelleher said, one of his athletes, Reggie McCottrill, told him a month or more ago that he dreamed Assumption would be playing the best team in Illinois in post season play. At that time, the regional pairings were not even selected, Kelleher said. "I didn't think too much of it at the time," Kelleher said. "But when the pairings came out and South was in our regional I couldn't believe it."

As is in many playoff situations, emotions ran high. Tuesday afternoon things were no different. Mid-way through the third quarter, with the score 2-1 favoring Assumption, a fight broke out in the corner left of Assumption's goal.

When order was restored, three athletes were ejected: two from Madison and one from Assumption.

Ejected from Madison were Morris Rickert and Derrick Newsome. The player ejected from Assumption was Lee Huskamp.

For almost a full quarter (before Assumption's Derrick Manley was ejected for kicking another player) Madison played a man short. The Trojans paid for it dearly as Assumption scored two quick goals.

At 67:24 into the game, Assumption's David Franco dribbled past Madison's defense to beat Gary Campbell to move the Pioneers ahead 3-1. Then, just 43 seconds later, Assumption scored again as Ron McPherson scored assisted by Franco.

Assumption's final score came 69:39 into the contest when David Morales scored on a penalty kick.

"Under the circumstances, I think the young guys I played today put forth a good effort," said Madison's coach Gene Briggs. "I think they played with intensity."

Steeler gridders in 'do or die' situation for GEC

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Granite City North's football team has to win its next two games by at least seven points total in order to win the Gateway East Conference.

There's a catch. The Steelers must defeat Belleville Althoff Friday by six points in order to have a chance to take the GEC's playoff berth in the IHSA playoffs.

If North can do that, all North would have to do is beat Edwardsville next week at Cahokia Friday in a 7:30 p.m. game. On Saturday, Madison travels to Red Bud, a school in only its second year of varsity football, in a Quad-County Conference game.

Althoff enters the game with a 5-2 record overall and a 4-0 record in the GEC while North is 4-3 overall and 3-1 in the conference. Neither team is eligible to be an "at-large" team in the playoffs, so North's playoff hopes ride on a six-point victory over the Crusaders.

Even if North doesn't defend its GEC title, Althoff coach Glenn Schott realizes North is a better team now than the first time the two teams played Oct. 1. Althoff won that game 17-12, thus requiring the Steelers win this game by six points.

"North's much improved than they were when we played them," Schott said. "The same coach scouted North's games at Edwardsville as well as the North-Cahokia game last week. North impressed him on how much they improved between the Edwardsville and the Cahokia games."

Friday's game will feature two of the best running backs in the GEC. Chris Demick of Althoff is the conference's second leading rusher with 750 yards while North's Al Prengel is third in the GEC with 649 yards.

In addition, Althoff's Kevin Schott and North's Daren DePew gives their running games an added dimension.

"Prengel and DePew are the two people we got to stop," Schott said. "Those two runners are both very good and they can hurt you if you can't contain them."

Meanwhile, North will have its hands full with Demick and Schott. Demick ran for 184 yards during their first game at Belleville.

"They run off tackle very well against Edwardsville. They did it well against us last time, and we're going to expect they'll do it again. He's (Demick's) one talented young man, but they're not a one-man team," Wyrostek said.

Mistakes should be a major factor in the game. Both teams have strong defenses, which means mistakes are likely to be made. Althoff has given up only 59 points this season while North has given up only 63 points.

"Every play in the game is going to be a key factor. We have to be careful of the big play because they're capable of doing it, but we have to keep them from making that short running plays too," Wyrostek said.

Wyrostek was surprised Althoff defeated Edwardsville 29-0 Saturday at Belleville. He was even slightly surprised North defeated Cahokia 27-0 because he expected both games to be much closer.

"I have a lot of respect for Edwardsville, and it surprised me that Althoff won as easily as they did. Both of our scores were kind of surprising," he said.

Wyrostek not only credited Prengel and DePew for the late season success, he also gave credit to other Steelers like defensive tackle Bill Zimmer, guard

John Morris, and center-defensive linemen Rod Hessler for the progress.

"We've really worked hard this year to become a better team. We're going out to win and to really work hard the next two games," Wyrostek said.

North will need everything it has because Althoff has improved as well. "I think our overall team play has been good since the second half of the North game. We've been really coming along as a unit," Schott said.

Granite North
Steelers

Friday to represent the conference in the playoffs.

If North wins by less than six points, all North can do is share the GEC title with the Crusaders. Althoff will be the GEC's representative in the playoffs of Althoff's point differential. A North loss would give Althoff sole possession of the GEC title.

Therefore, everything is on the line for Granite North in Friday's critical GEC game at the Granite City South field. Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m.

In other games involving Press-Record area teams, Granite City South will try to snap its 25-game losing title and playoff berth. Steeler coach Tom Wyrostek still will be pleased with the season.

"The most important thing is for the young men to learn to compete," Wyrostek said. "I'm very proud of the amount of progress we've made this year."

Yet, the Steelers' desire for a conference title and playoff berth still makes this game more important than the previous seven games.

"There's no tomorrow for us if we don't win this one by six," Wyrostek said. "We're sure Althoff's going to come to play. We have to find out Friday whether we're ready to play."

Nolan, Popmarkoff lead GCN, GCS in goals scored

Both Granite City high school soccer teams enter regional playoff action today as Granite City North takes on Cahokia at 3:30 p.m., while Granite City South takes on Assumption High School at 7 p.m. at South. Both games are at each respective Granite City high school.

In regular season, the Warriors have posted an impressive 22-2 record. If all goes well for the Warriors, they could win as many as 29 games this season, the most ever. To do that, however, South must win the state championship.

In its 1982 campaign, South has scored 64 goals to their opposition's eight. These schools to score on South were Indiana Memorial, Quincy Notre Dame, Hazelwood East, Bishop DuBourg and St. Mary's.

"It's been an extremely successful regular season of play," said Gene Baker, South's coach. "It's the most wins we've ever had in a regular season."

Leading scorers for South include Phil Popmarkoff with 13 goals and two assists, John Menendez with 10 goals and seven assists, Bill Hency with nine goals and seven assists, Tony Segobiano with eight goals and one assist, Nathan Crane with seven goals and six assists and Barry Grote with six goals and three assists.

Moving to the north side of town, coach Bob Kehoe and his Steelers have posted a 10-1 record in regular season play. That record includes a loss due to the Steelers' suspension of the McCluer North game.

Although the Steelers' season record is not as impressive as the Warriors', one North striker has equaled South's leading scorer — Benny Nolan.

Granite North
Steelers

Nolan, like Popmarkoff, has 13 goals. Nolan also has eight assists to his credit.

The Steelers' second leading scorer is Brian Levin with nine goals and nine assists. Tim Dean is North's third leading scorer with six goals and six assists to his credit.

Steve Tritschuh is North's fourth leading scorer with five goals and five assists, followed by Dave Shelch with three goals and four assists.

North's goalie Rich Branding is credited with six shutouts.

'Comeback' Steelers defeat Kahoks; advance to Sectionals

GRANITE CITY — The Steeler volleyball has been making a season of comebacks.

Tuesday night, in the opening round of regional action, the Steelers dropped the first game in the best of three game series to Edwardsville 15-15.

In the following two games however, North assembled its forces to defeat the Tigers 15-12 and 15-11 to earn a berth in the final round against Collinsville.

Last night, true to tradition, the Steelers pulled it off again. Collinsville soundly defeated the Steelers 15-3 in the first game, but North came back to win the final two games 15-7 and 15-12 to win its first volleyball regional ever.

"I told the girls they didn't have anything to lose after that first game," said Steeler coach Paula Wise. "I told them to go out and relax and just play the game."

In the second game, the Steelers did just that. They won the second game nearly as easily as Collinsville won the first. The third and final game, however, was something else.

In the early going of that third and deciding game, Collinsville seemed to be back on track as the Kahoks jumped out to a 6-0 lead before a Steeler time out stopped the Kahok rally.

North responded with four points before Collinsville scored twice to take an eight to four lead.

The Steelers came back to tie the game at 10 all before they made their surge for the 15-12 victory to win the regional.

Lisa Lilley, Michelle Morgan and Trish Atkinson played superbly for the Steelers.

The Steeler victory gave the girls a berth in Sectional play at the Belleville West this Tuesday, Nov. 2.

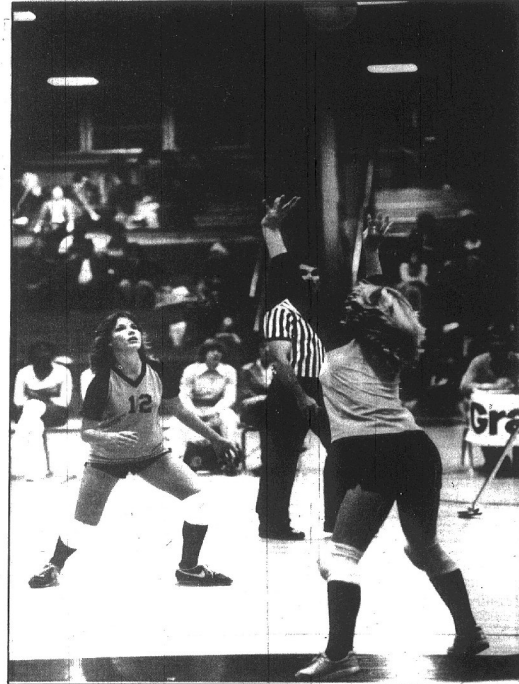

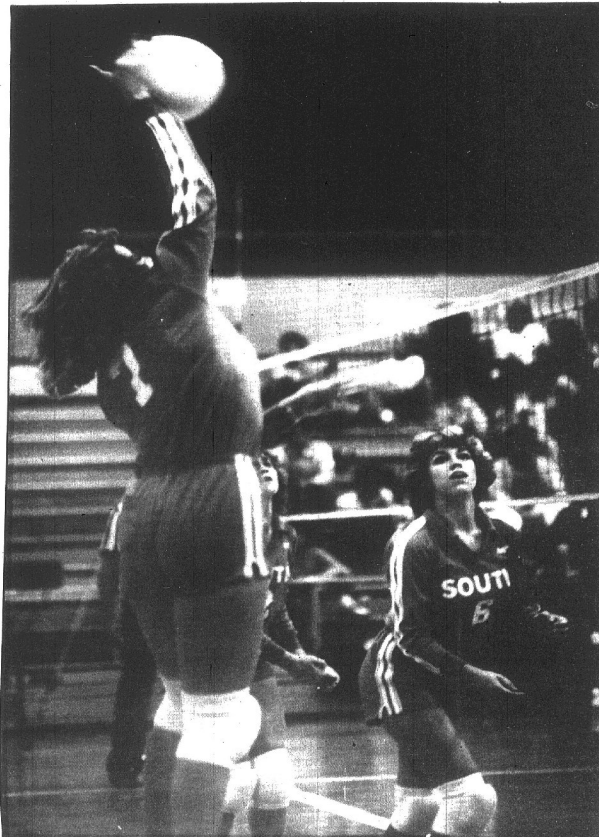

In first round action of the North Regional Collinsville defeated Roxana 15-4, 15-2. North's defeat of Edwardsville in that first round set the stage for the regional championship.

In the Granite South Regionals, the Warriors lost the first round to East St. Louis Lincoln 15-12, 7-15, 15-12. Lincoln won the tourney by defeating rival East St. Louis Senior 15-12, 15-6. In their first round play, East St. Louis Senior defeated Cahokia 13-15, 15-7, 15-11.

Both Madison and Venice girls' volleyball teams fell from Class A Regional play Wednesday night at the Assumption Regional.

Venice lost two games to Assumption High School 15-0 and 15-11. Madison fell to Breese Central High School 15-11 and 15-12.

Tonight Central plays Assumption at Assumption High School.

REGIONAL ACTION. Granite City hosted two volleyball regionals this week: one at Granite City South, the other at Granite City North. At left, Allison Boyd looks on as Gina Graham spikes this shot against East St. Louis-Lincoln. Above, Michelle Morgan sets up this shot for Debbie Brandt. The Warriors lost to Lincoln, but the Steelers defeated Edwardsville and Collinsville to win their regional.

Cougars, SLU in Boot game Friday

By AL BARNES

For the Press-Record
Tomorrow night, the 1982 Big School metropolitan St. Louis area collegiate soccer championship could well be decided.

It's the 12th annual Bronze Boot battle between Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the St. Louis University Billikins at Busch Stadium with the kickoff scheduled at 7:30 p.m.

Since the Bills already own a victory this season over the Rivermen of the University of Missouri at St. Louis and UMSL owns a one-goal triumph over the SIUE Cougars, it's obvious that a win by St. Louis U. over Coach Bob Guelker's kickers would give Coach Harry Keough's kickers the mythical St. Louis area championship.

More importantly, as far as the Bills are concerned, it would keep alive their fleeting hopes for a post-season NCAA division I tournament bid for St. Louis.

Going into this year's Bronze Boot battle, the Bills own a 6-4-1 edge in that series competition, but are 12-9-1 in overall play since the skien started in 1969.

The SIUE Cougars prepared for their meeting with the Bills with a two-game, on-the-road sweep this past weekend. Guelker's charges traveled north to take a 2-1 victory over the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee and a 3-0 win over the Chikies of the University of Illinois at Chicago.

The two games gave the Cougars a 11-3-1 season, while the Bills are now 9-6-2. However, as in most traditional rivalries like this one, win-loss records really don't mean too much while trying to pick a winner. A victory for the Bills would almost certainly gain them a post-season tourney bid and a triumph for the Cougars would only enhance their already strong claim to a slot.

The series between St. Louis U. and SIUE has been a really fascinating one. In fact, the first two times the two giants met were not even regularly scheduled games at all, but Midwest NCAA regional tournament clashes.

The Bills won the first encounter, 4-1, in a wild which saw the young (1969) upstart Cougars battle the defending national champions to 0-0 tie for all but two minutes of the first half. It was played at Muehle Field on the Bills' Campus.

Then, the next year, the Cougars led 1-0 up until only six minutes remained in the game, a furious and bitterly fought game at SIUE's new field, only to lose, 2-0, on a most unlikely series of events.

And, in closing, I would like to suggest that, in the future, if the two men who worked the recent SIUE-UMSL game are the only officials available that the game be immediately postponed until more competent ones are obtainable.

Those two officials were guilty of two of the worst of an umpire or referee: rabbit ears and when making an obvious bad call and, when it is called to their attention, taking out their embarrassment on the players. I surely don't condone players bad-mouthing of officials, but everyone in the crowd at the SIUE-vs-UMSL knew that the two officials "blew" not only one but several calls. Three real cards, ugh!

But, back to the Bronze Boot battle... it'll be a tough game, no doubt of it.

North hosts IHSA regional harrier mee

By ROGER KRAMER

GRANITE CITY — Both Granite City North's and Granite City South's boys' and girls' cross country teams have spent long hours in practice and in competition since August.

All of those meets and practices have led up to one meet: the Illinois High School Association Regional meet at Granite City North Saturday.

North hosts both the girls and the Class AA boys meets. The girls meet will start at 10:30 a.m. while the boys meet will start at 11 a.m.

The top five girls teams and the top five runners not on the qualifying teams will advance to the Springfield Lamphier Sectional No. 6.

Meanwhile, the top four boys teams and the top five runners not on the qualifying teams also advanced to the Springfield Lamphier Sectional.

Granite City South, East St. Louis Lincoln and Belleville West should be the three teams contending for the girls championship, according to South coach Richard Harmon.

Despite having a young and inexperienced team early in the season, Granite City North can be considered a serious contender for the top five team spots. North coach Pete Robinson contends his girls have improved immensely throughout the season.

Edwardsville could also qualify for the sectionals.

Other schools in the girls regional include Belleville East, Bunker Hill, Cahokia, Collinsville, Collinsville, East St. Louis (Sr.), Hillsboro, Litchfield, Red Bud, Roxana, Waterloo and Worden.

Lora Wiser has been the South's top runner this season, and she lead a squad which Harmon considers to be six deep. Mary Bisch, Michelle Shoemaker, Mary Romine, Angela Grabowski, and Connie Williamson provide enough depth to make South a contender.

Romine is recovering from an ankle injury and Williamson is recovering from shin splints, but both runners should be able to run Saturday.

"We've got an excellent chance of winning this meet. If we can qualify, Mary and Connie should be completely ready for the sectionals," Harmon said.

Paula Rozycski and Vicki Schaefer have emerged as North's top two runners and are capable of qualifying.

If Faye Patton, Dawn Young and Teresa Naler can provide outstanding performances, North's team could also make the trip to Springfield.

Collinsville's Pam Quirengi will be the favorite to win. Other runners to watch in the girls meet are Lincoln's Jackie Cotton and Sarah Galliday, Highland's Ruth Tachanan, Edwardsville's Mary Kay Hyten and Juleigh Barringer and Belleville East's Lisa Jones.

In the boys' meet, North, Lincoln, East St. Louis Sr. and Belleville West are the four teams to beat in the meet.

Other schools entered in the boys' meet are Alton, Belleville East, Civic Memorial (Bethalto), Cahokia, Collinsville, Edwardsville, Jerseyville, Roxana and Wood River.

Jim Robertson of North and Lincoln's Andre Maddox and Dedrick Flowers should be strong challengers for the individual championship.

Ken Meyer, John Peters, Bill Schaefer and Ken Kalka will provide the key to success for North. If all four runners can finish ahead of other the East St. Louis runners, North can pull off the team championship.

"Meyer has been our unsung hero all year, and Peters is capable of running with Meyer. If Kalka can run a good race as the fifth runner, we should do well," Robinson said.

"We better make it out of here," Robinson said. "If we didn't advance to Springfield, I would be a big letdown for all of us because we've had a good season," he added.

Todd Scrum and Curt Smith appear to be the Warriors most likely to have a chance to qualify.

Girls' state tennis tournament is this weekend

BLOOMINGTON — Defending team champion Winnetka (New Trier) is one of 13 schools advancing two single players and two doubles teams into the 11th annual Illinois High School Association (IHSA) Girls State Final Tennis Tournament, beginning Thursday on the courts in District 214 in the Mt. Prospect area.

Neither Granite City North, Granite City South or

Madison has qualified an athlete for this weekend's girls' state tournament.

The Trevias, without the services of last year's singles champion Michelle Torres (who bypassed high school competition this fall), are led by No. 1 singles player Cathy Van Pelt.

A year ago, Van Pelt and senior Christine Parr teamed to take the state doubles crown with a 6-7, 7-6, 7-5 decision over teammates Lisa Gollab and Jennifer Nolan. Van Pelt seeks to become the first girl in the brief history of the series to win crowns in both singles and doubles during her high school career.

The tandem of Gollab and Nolan ranks as the one to beat in doubles. They beat New Trier newcomers Sheri Biendorf (So.) and Lynn Wise (Jr.) 6-0, 6-0 for the sectional title last weekend.

Competition gets under way Thursday at 1 p.m. with the opening two rounds of the championship bracket and the first round of consolation competition.

Friday, the championship bracket will be paired to semi-finalists and the consolation bracket to quarterfinalists.

On Saturday, the semifinals will be at 9 a.m. Finals in both singles and doubles are scheduled to get underway at about 1 p.m.

Teams advancing two singles players and two doubles teams (with respective sectional places) are:

School	Singles	Doubles
Aurora (West)	1 & 3	1 & 2
Barrington (Central)	1 & 4	1 & 3
Belleville (East)	3 & 4	3 & 4
Centrales (West)	1 & 2	1 & 2
Flossmoor

(Home-wood-F.)	1 & 3	2 & 4
Hinsdale (Central)	1 & 2	1 & 2
LaGrange (Lyons)	3 & 4	3 & 4
Oak Park-River Forest	1 & 2	1 & 2
Palatine (Fremd)	1 & 2	2 & 3

Sterling H.S.	1 & 2	1 & 2
Waukegan (West)	2 & 3	1 & 3
Winnetka (New Trier)	1 & 4	1 & 2

Last year Hinsdale (Central) placed second with 14 points to New Trier's 30. Hinsdale (Central) advanced a pair of seniors and four juniors to the State Final Tournament.

Ryan or Mrs. Stern would be activist as lieutenant governor

Quad-Cityans will only mark one "X" on their Nov. 2 ballot for the office of governor and lieutenant governor. The candidates run as a team, in contrast to the past, when they have simultaneously elected Republican Richard Ogilvie as governor and Democrat Paul Simon as lieutenant governor.

But there is interest here and elsewhere in the No. 2 office, and the identity of the candidates will have at least some influence on whether voters back Democrats or Republicans for the two offices.

The lieutenant governor nominees are Mrs. Grace Mary Stern, Highland Park, who was unopposed in the Democratic primary, and Illinois House Speaker George H. Ryan, Kankakee, who won the Republican nomination in March over State Rep. Susan Catania of Chicago and State Sen. Donald Totten of Hoffman Estates.

Mrs. Stern is paired with Adlai E. Stevenson in the Democratic duo and Ryan is linked with Governor James R. Thompson on the GOP (Grand Old Party) team. In both cases, the running mates were the first choices of the gubernatorial candidates.

Mrs. Stern is the county clerk of Lake County in the Chicago suburban area and has long been active in Democratic politics in that populous area.

"Speaker Ryan, 47, who heads a pharmacy in Kankakee, is giving up his seat in the House and his leadership role in order to run for lieutenant governor. There is speculation that, if Gov. Thompson wins a third term, he would not run a fourth time and instead would seek national office. If that occurs, Ryan is seen as likely to try for the governor office in 1986.

Ryan's lieutenant governor campaign has been co-chaired by former Gov. Ogilvie and former Gov. William Stratton. He says, "I've had six years in leadership—four as House minority leader and two as speaker."

"Experience from working on a daily basis on statewide problems is a valuable thing for a lieutenant governor."

"I would work within the confines of the administration—on the budget, with legislators, with the cabinet to solve problems that come before the governor's office."

"Something I could do besides the statutory requirement would be to broaden the economic and employment base by seeking to attract business development."

"Aware that the economic recession may hurt Republicans in the election despite progress toward curbing inflation, Ryan believes that he can be a reality, such as shifting welfare assistance to state governments."

"The candidate opposes tax hikes of any kind. On another issue, he says he has 'deep respect for the sanctity of human life and the American family tradition.'"

Mrs. Stern has been an active and aggressive campaigner. In an appearance this month at the United Steelworkers' Abel Halling Alton, she pledged to work hard if elected as lieutenant governor and to make the position "important and vital."

"She likened her future record in the office to the activist performance of Simon and Neil Hartigan. The latter, lieutenant governor of Illinois in the mid-1970s, currently is running for attorney general. Simon, formerly a state legislator representing the Quad-Cities, is the congressman from the southernmost Illinois district."

"I will try to live up to the standards they set," Mrs. Stern told the audience of union members.

"I'll certainly be right years ahead of that wight, Dave O'Neal." She referred to a Belleville resident who was elected lieutenant governor with Gov. Thompson but resigned in mid-term.

Mrs. Stern urged that voters back the entire Democratic ticket. She said the present governor "has no answers" and that people tell her they are near panic about unemployment.

Election Nov. 2

She said the "Stevenson-Stern economic program" could lead to solutions.

Mrs. Stern is the only woman on the state ballot in the general election, and is the first to be nominated by her party or a statewide office in Illinois.

She voiced appreciation for labor backing of Democratic candidates. The Democratic nominee said that while joblessness has crippled her party's fund-raising efforts, the unemployed still can give us their time and their voices."

She called Ryan "Chicken George" and said he has been largely absent from the campaign trail, relying on the governor's coattails. At a candidate forum in Chicago on Oct. 23, Ryan urged that an FBI investigation be concluded before the election. It is checking allegations on his dealings with an Illinois nursing home operator.

Acknowledging that he has no control over the investigation, he said he nevertheless is publicly asking authorities to finish it as soon as possible and "bring this to a head."

It is being contended that his pharmacy received thousands of dollars worth of business from Morris Esformes after Ryan arranged a meeting between Esformes and the state public health director. Mrs. Stern predicted at the forum that it is merely one of "many reports that are going to come out after the election."

Ryan reiterated that any suggestion that he may have acted improperly is "unfounded."

Speaking shortly before a Thompson-Stevenson debate, Mrs. Stern called the GOP ticket "a genuinely odd couple."

She said programs Thompson brags about supporting in his television commercials were opposed by Ryan on the House floor. Mrs. Stern characterized her opponent as "the ultimate good old boy legislator, responsive to lobbyists and special interests."

Ryan indicated he resented her remarks and said his legislative experience has helped prepare him to be "a partner" of the governor. He emphasized, "The Thompson program will be my program."

Acknowledging that he strongly opposed the Equal Rights Amendment, which failed to achieve ratification, he said, "I support equality for everyone, including women."

His campaign in this region is being led by Everett G. Steele of Glen Carbon, a state representative. Steele did not seek re-election this fall.

During the campaign, Ryan has said that, if elected, he hopes to coordinate Illinois drug and alcohol treatment programs. He denies avoiding campaigning in Chicago but says he is concentrating on Downstate and trying to help Republican legislative candidates.

He attended ribbon-cutting ceremonies Oct. 12 at the Moment Packing Co., which began operation that day. It employed 62 new workers and says the total will grow to 150 by January. Ryan noted that the 70,000 square foot hog facility was aided by a $25,000 state grant to train unskilled workers in slaughtering procedures. The training was conducted at Kankakee Community College.

A former member of the House appropriations committee, Ryan has been active in efforts to improve the workers' compensation program.

Rep. Steele, who has served in the legislature with Ryan since 1974, says the speaker has "demonstrated extraordinary leadership skills and imagination. His sensible views match those of the overwhelming majority of the people of this state."

"He has strong convictions about the need for fiscal common sense, efficiency and sensitivity in government services, and restoration of economic stability."

"He has already demonstrated he is aware of the concerns of people in Madison County and all of Southwest Illinois. They have been able to count on him to deliver what is needed."

Mrs. Stern, 56, and Stevenson agree that she would be an ombudsman in the style of Paul Simon, providing a link between citizens and the state government.

She would be a member of executive branch policy panels and would coordinate studies of the present structure of Illinois government.

County clerk for the past 12 years, she has sought to make governmental information available to the public. She is active in several state women's organizations.

ARREST SAME MAN TWICE ON SUNDAY

Called to a disturbance at the home of Patricia White, 2318a Washington Ave., at 2:15 a.m. Sunday, where a man was refusing to leave, officers escorted Arthur E. Fickenwirth, 46, of the 2300 block of Washington Avenue from the premises, warning him not to return.

Fickenwirth allegedly returned to the dwelling at 3:55 a.m. Sunday and was arrested. He was charged with criminal trespass to land (city) and pleaded guilty in an appearance before Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand at 2:10 p.m. Sunday. Fickenwirth was fined $52 and released.

Officers were called back to the White dwelling at 9:25 p.m. Sunday by David Milton, 2321 Washington Ave., owner-manager of the 2319 Washington address, who said Fickenwirth again had returned after being ordered to stay away.

Fickenwirth allegedly declined to leave and was arrested on a state charge of criminal trespass to land. The complaint was signed by Milton.

Local artists exhibit work

Six area residents, including two from Granite City, are among some 180 amateur Illinois artists whose works will be exhibited at the University of Illinois Town and Country Amateur Art Exhibition to be conducted Oct. 28 to Nov. 7 at Lincoln Square Mall, Urbana.

Area artists and their works include Edith A. Herman of Edwardsville, "John R." pastel; Marcia K. Hunt of Edwardsville, "Hurricane Creek Mallards," acrylic; Eva M. emerged from that level of competition in ten regional shows. Artists whose works won blue ribbons at regional shows were invited to be in the state exhibit.

The show will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily except on Oct. 30 and 31 and Nov. 6, when the show will close at 5 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 7, when the show will be open from noon to 1:15 p.m. for a critique. Admission to the show is free.

A variety of art forms, including oils, watercolors, acrylics, ceramics, sculpture, soft sculpture, papermaking, batik, printmaking, photography, pencil, pen and ink, stained glass and metal work will be represented in this year's show. George Foster, U of I professor of art and design, will serve as the jurist for the state competition.

A catalogue with pictures of the award-winning works will be available at the state show. A donation will be requested to help defray publication costs. Many of the works to be displayed are for sale and the addresses of artists are included in the catalogue. Also available for

REJECT RACE QUOTA

The Illinois Supreme Court has just overturned a State Education Board requirement that the racial composition of pupils of any school be within 15 percent of the racial makeup of the entire district enrollment. The court said that if the board finds discrimination in a school district, it should ask the attorney general to prosecute. The justices ruled that neither the Illinois constitution nor the legislated school code authorizes the agency to set desegregation rules.

Miles running for 2nd board term

Democrat Morris W. Miles, of 118 Kinder Lane, Mitchell, is seeking re-election to the Madison County Board next Tuesday in District 16 against Republican Eric L. McDowell of South Roxana. Miles, 48, is completing a four-year term on the board. Due to redistricting, the new term will be for two years. Employed for the past 20 years by Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Alton, where he is vice-president of sales, Miles has served on the executive board of the Madison County Democratic Central Committee. He has been active in the central-county area Democratic group and has served as Chouteau Township Democratic chairman.

MORRIS MILES

He and his wife, Joann, have two children, Jennifer Ann and Morris Wayne Miles Jr. He is a past president of the Mitchell volunteer firemen and the Granite City Jaycees.

Miles says much of his attention and that of the other board members is being devoted to efforts to end a growing disparity between the county government's revenue and costs. "I want to make sure our county keeps operating without a boost in taxes. Nobody wants a tax increase. What we need to do is operate within our means," he comments.

Miles says cutbacks in some federal funds have meant that the county board must work harder to try to maintain the services citizens want, without raising local taxes.

McDowell, 33, a self-employed truck driver and construction worker, disagrees in part. He asserts that Madison County has a surplus of money. "They have not spent the revenue they have had. Small communities like South Roxana are behind in what they've had done for them. I have lived here all my life and I know that we have been left out."

McDowell, a long-time GOP precinct committeeman who considers himself an independent, has taken an interest in government for a number of years and at one time ran for mayor of South Roxana.

He says, "The county is not being managed properly. They do not spend at the right time. They wait until the last minute to repair a road; all the while that drivers are having problems with the road, the money for it is invested to make money."

Each general election nominee defeated an opponent in his party primary. McDowell won over Terry Niedhardt of Mitchell and Miles defeated Chester Whyers Sr. of Mitchell.

Miles, born in Stewart County, Tenn., has been a local resident for 30 years. He is of the Protestant faith.

Graduating from Stewart County High School, the industrial management program of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the Pepsi-Cola Management Institute, he served in the Army for two years.

President of the Chouteau Citizens Club, he has been active in the Mitchell Athletic Club, Mitchell PTA and Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce.

The Chouteau Precinct Five committeeman for ten years, Miles in the 1982 campaign has cited his management experience and competent staff and have moved into a permanent building. We will solve problems concerning private sewer systems within the service area, and will deal with the fact that some Area One residents lack sewer service.

"I was opposed to the sewer rate increase last year and would oppose any future rate hike proposals. Instead, as more users are connected onto the system, our goal is to continue decreasing the rate."

His board experience has included service on the health institutions, environmental control and personnel committees.

Working women is meeting program

Mrs. Carol Surtin, a representative from The Hickey Business School in St. Louis, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Madison High School classes of Lee Ashby and Mrs. Parks.

She introduced many interesting statistics including the forecast of the number of women who will be working, how long they will work, and how many will be the only source of support for the household.

Mrs. Surtin explained that no one wants to be a failure however, if a person does not plan to succeed they will fail. Post graduate education is very costly therefore, those interested in further education should investigate the possibilities available, she noted.

Factors to consider in making a choice are ability, interest, and job availability. She said the largest job market today is for the trained secretary and the most important qualities of the secretary is communication skills, good attitude, typing and shorthand skills.

In closing her discussion Mrs. Surtin spoke on word processing explaining the five common parts of word process are: create, edit, manipulate, store and retrieve, with accuracy the most important segment of word processing.

More eye exams needed after 40

Q: How often should a 35-year-old woman have her eyes checked? It's been six years since my last exam. M.M.S., San Diego, Calif.

A: There are several reasons to have your eyes examined. Normally, one would require an eye examination on a regular basis. If there has been any history of previous eye disease or infection, glaucoma or decreased vision for any cause, a routine examination by your ophthalmologist (medical doctor specialist) will be required on a regular basis. If there is a family history of any eye disease which could affect vision, you should have a regular annual ocular examination.

If for any reason, you are having decreased vision, flashes of light, pain in the eye, or a continually irritated eye, you should, of course, see your ophthalmologist as soon as possible.

If you have no previous history of eye disease and are not having any ocular complaints then you should see your ophthalmologist every two years for a routine examination to rule out the presence of disease of the front or back of the eye, including glaucoma. If you wear glasses, or your vision in the distance or for reading is still good, there is no reason to require a more frequent eye examination.

As we lose the ability to focus and have to hold reading material further and further away, we may require the use of reading glasses. This usually occurs after the age of 40. The incidence of high pressure inside the eye (glaucoma) which is undetected by the patient, increases rather dramatically after the age of 40. For these two reasons, therefore, one should request an eye examination on an annual basis.

Again, let me stress that if you have any pain, ocular redness, decreased vision, floaters in the field of vision or any other ocular complaint, consult your ophthalmologist physician as soon as possible. Dr. Perry Binder, associate professor of surgery, division of ophthalmology at the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

Q: What exactly is Scheuermann's disease, and what is the outlook for patients who have it? — P.C., Columbus, Ohio deformity in adolescents of both sexes, but is much more common in boys. There is a definite familial incidence of the condition, but the basic causation is otherwise not well understood. There is a deficiency of growth of the front part of the vertebral body and the cartilage may be further damaged by bursting of the intervertebral discs into the body of the vertebrae.

A: Scheuermann's disease causes a "round back"

Because the changes occur predominantly near the front margin of vertebrae where the greatest weight thrust is borne, the intervertebral disc tends to be more narrowed anteriorly. Similarly, there is deficient growth of the front part of the vertebral body which becomes slightly wedge-shaped. Because most vertebrae are usually affected, a round back deformity results.

The lesion needs to be distinguished from infection of the spine, which may show some superficial similarities in radiological and clinical appearance.

If the initial symptoms are severe, a period of bed rest followed by a spinal brace is usually indicated. Active exercises to strengthen the posterior spinal muscles are also encouraged. In milder cases, rest in bed is usually not necessary and a brace with exercises, or even exercises alone will usually suffice.

The disease is self-limiting, with the active stage lasting about two years. However, if the bones are significantly deformed, a permanent round back resulting in very rare cases, there may be an indication for operative intervention to correct the deformity and fuse the spine.

In a certain percentage of cases, patients who developed Scheuermann's disease in adolescence may find this degenerative disease of the spine supervenes in later life, but this is not always of great clinical significance. — Dr. David H. Gersham, associate professor of surgery at the University of California, San Diego School of Medicine.

The injured man was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was admitted for observation. Roger Joe Bowler Jr., 19, of 54 Cambridge Drive, told police he had pulled his four-wheel drive vehicle into the restaurant's parking lot and was preparing to stop when the brakes failed and the 1972 Blazer struck a concrete block section of the front wall.

Several blocks were knocked into the restaurant, with part of the debris striking Beal, who was seated at a table.

J. L. Kircher, president of the Granite City Ice Cream Company, has been designated as chairman of the Granite City Dairy Committee which is obtaining support from this section for the collective exhibit which the entire dairy industry of the United States will have at a Century of Progress World's Fair in Chicago in 1933. It was announced today. Seventy-one individuals, firms, and associations in twenty-six communities in Illinois have already promised their wholehearted support of the World's Fair Dairy Exhibit, according to information received by Kircher.

Exercising the spirit of the Exposition, the design of the Dairy building will utilize modern building methods, skeleton steel construction and new building materials. The beauty and simplicity of the modern windowless architecture, with color and illumination schemes arranged to produce striking effects night and day, is the medium that has been chosen exteriorly to express the majesty of the dairy industry.

Digging back in old records, Granite City park district commissioners came up with an answer last night to the problem of numerous complaints of dogs running loose in Wilson Park, disturbing individuals and causing property damage. Ordinance No. 14, dated in 1923, gives park police authority to shoot all dogs that are not being carried or walked on a leash and muzzled. The 34-year-old law also prohibits chickens, ducks, hogs, cattle, horses, sheep and goats to roam in the park. Rather than shoot roaming dogs, the commissioners decided that the owners are to be arrested, and if found guilty, will be fined $5 to $200.

Cleaning up garden gear

By CHRIS DOLL

Area Garden Advisor

The gardening season is about over and your garden equipment should be cleaned and winterized after final use.

Proper care will extend the life of the equipment and gardening will be easier next spring with clean, sharp tools and easy-to-start engines.

Hand tools should be cleaned so they are free of dirt and rust. A putty knife and wire brush are good tools for this.

Coat all exposed metal with oil for protection against moisture. Then store in a dry, sheltered area.

Gasoline engines on power equipment need special care. After the last use of the season, drain the gasoline from both the tank and carburetor.

The easiest way to drain the latter is to drain the tank, and then let the engine run long enough to drain the carburetor.

Drain the oil from the crank case and refill it with clean oil.

Grease and oil all fittings. Remove the sparkplug and add a few drops of oil in the hole.

Turn the flywheel or crankshaft a few times to distribute the oil and grease on all surfaces.

These procedures will protect all parts from wintertime corrosion.

Sprayers should be washed and dried thoroughly. Make sure all hoses, pipes and valves are drained. Then coat all moving parts with oil before storing in a dry location.

A final step in preparing equipment for next year's gardening is to make all needed repairs now. You will then be ready for the first nice day of spring.

General Bank to buy the Bend bank

Jack W. Minton, chairman of General Bancshares Corp., a St. Louis based bank holding company and Ralph Oltmann, chairman and principal stockholder of the First National Bank of Bend, announced Monday the execution of an agreement providing for sale of the Illinois bank to General Bancshares.

On July 14, shareholders controlling the $180,000,000 Belleville National Bank approved a merger with General Bancshares.

Minton said, "We are fortunate to have the opportunity to become associated with a bank that has for 77 years provided outstanding service to the Bend area."

"At the conclusion of now pending transactions, our banks in Belleville, Quincy, Benton, Zeigler and Bend will serve a growing economic area. We are hopeful of making additional acquisitions in Illinois in the immediate future."

The First National Bank of Bend recently opened a facility in Gillespie and has total assets of $24,476,000.

The General Bancshares company, with 12 banks in Illinois, Missouri and Tennessee, has consolidated assets of $1,352,938,000.

If the affiliation of the Belleville National Bank, currently pending, and the acquisition of the Bend bank are consummated, General would have assets of $1,560,000,000, of which $463,000,000 would be located in Illinois.

The announced target of General Bancshares is to have at least $2 billion in assets within the next 12 months; the growth being fueled mainly by Illinois acquisitions.

The Bend transaction is subject to the approval of bank regulatory agencies.
